Who Started Sex Distinction?
How to Be Safe and Rich
Nothing Lasts
New Religion—No Hell

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1929, King Features Synd., Inc.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT, active lady, urges no sex distinction in business, telling unseeing ladies over the radio they needn't ask favors, and should work as hard as men in all directions.

Mrs. Willebrandt should remember that sex distinctions in labor are not the work of women but of nature.

If men would agree to have half of the babies instead of making women have all of them, women undoubtedly would be willing to "compete on even terms."

The Governor of North Carolina says wages should be made higher, hours shorter, in the textile industry. He does not share the belief that human beings in the South should be treated like cattle, in order to attract Northern capital.

All intelligent Americans, especially the rich and prosperous that want to remain rich and prosperous, should realize the importance of paying good wages with reasonable leisure for the enjoyment of life. The prosperity of the few depends on the prosperity of the many. The safety of the few depends on the contentment of the many.

Those not very old remember the opening of New York's Waldorf Hotel which became the Waldorf-Astoria later.

Now workers are tearing down a building that cost millions, to build another that will be 30 stories high and cost many more millions. Former Governor Smith heads the enterprise.

Everything changes, nothing lasts.

Men planning 50 or 40 story buildings today tell you they expect to see them torn down.

"Waste" Not necessarily. There is more waste in land inadequately improved than in tearing down inadequate improvements.

A new "religion" calls itself the "First Humanist Society." It excludes everything supernatural. There is no God, no heaven, hell, sin, redemption or prayer in the new religion, which is intended for those that "attend no church whatever."

The gentlemen in charge think there is great dissatisfaction with religion now, as in the Roman empire when Christianity appeared. Possibly, but to leave the supernatural out of religion is to leave out the only thing that makes religion interesting.

It seems strange to talk of religion with no mention of "sin." But to ignore sin is one of the peculiarities of the day. The Rev. Dr. Shelton, head of the National Bible Institute, observes that sin is mentioned only once in 41 New York sermons.

The alarming illness of Prof. Albert Michelson, one of the great living physicists, is bad news for the world. Distinguished scientist of the Chicago University, winner of the Nobel prize, Professor Michelson is worth in actual scientific accomplishment 10 times more than his brilliant co-religionist Einstein.

Professor Einstein explains the inexplicable, rather in the Old Testament method.

Professor Michelson has shown how things can be done, measuring the speed of light, the rigidity of the earth, performing many practical scientific wonders.

Statistics prove that 116,000 automobiles were stolen last year, their value $81,200,000. That is a tribute to the crime wave, and a contribution to the motor industry.

Automobile thefts reach the lowest ebb in February, naturally. Motoring then is less pleasant.

It is good news that the Florida fruit fly has disappeared, the rainy season causing the pest to vanish, it is hoped permanently. Almost $5,000,000 used in fighting the fly was well spent.

The War Department plans to test the power of vaccination to prevent rabies. At Fortis Kibun Allen, Sheridan, Riley and other places all dogs will be vaccinated compulsory, semi-annually, for a period of 10 years and statistics gathered.

It would be a good idea, in the meanwhile, to have dogs vaccinated everywhere. There have been mad dogs in England, except when rabies is brought in by some dog escaping quarantine, which happens rarely. Nearly all of the worst diseases among men and animals would be stamped out, if men would take the trouble.

The Rev. Dr. John Falconer Graves says lack of religion increases the number of suicides. He thinks that "reaching fear of hell" would make suicides hesitate. It might, but a raise in wages would do even more than the fear of hell. A man who believes that life itself is hell will scarcely hesitate to try another kind. Diminish his unhappiness and he'll stay.

Navy Lobbyist Declares That Hoover Managers Used His Propaganda

Washington, Oct. 1—The Senate's shipbuilding investigation veered suddenly for a time today from the 1927 Geneva naval conference to the part William B. Shearer said he played in the last presidential campaign.

Appearing for the second consecutive day, Shearer testified that upon the suggestion of Senator Moses of New Hampshire, Representative Bacon of New York and Mr. Archer, he had gone to Massachusetts, looked up Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman, and made a speech, and that others had done his articles entitled "Sea Power."

Moses and Bacon were prominent in Republican campaign activities while Archer was described by Shearer as an assistant to Senator Allen, Republican, Kansas, who was director of publicity for the Republican national committee and is now a member of the investigation committee.

ROCKEFELLER INTERESTED

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, who was the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, turned the testimony toward the campaign after Shearer, who received $25,000 from three shipbuilding corporations for representing them at Geneva, said S. W. Wakeman, head of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp., conceived the idea of keeping secret his employment by the shipbuilders.

He testified Wakeman had given him his instructions at a private conference and that T. P. Palen, vice-president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., acquiesced. Asked about Clinton L. Bardo, Shearer said Wakeman and Palen said he would "trail along."

"What reason did they give?" inquired Robinson.

"They considered that the so-called pacifist influence in the United States had become so great," the witness said, "and that 26 Broadway was so near you know J. D. Rockefeller in a way is affiliated with the Bethlehem interests."

"Ivy Lee is the press agent of the Rockefellers and also of the Bethlehem crowd and I believe of the British government. The shipbuilders had paid him $150,000 and I suppose they didn't want to puncture his vanity."

KELLOGG'S NICKNAME.

At one juncture a committee member objected to Shearer referring to former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg as "Nervus Nellie," but Shearer insisted that was the way he had spoken of him in the conversation he was relating.

Quits Post in Hospital

OPPOSE NEGRO GIRL NURSES

Dissension among the nurses at Boston City Hospital because of the admission of two colored girls as students was reported today to have been at least a contributory cause of the resignation of Miss Ellen C. Daly, superintendent of the hospital training school.

Miss Daly, whose resignation has been accepted, was reluctant to discuss her withdrawal. Trustees and the superintendent of City Hospital were likewise reticent.

To the question, "Is it a fact that you tendered your resignation because two colored nurses have joined the staff?" Miss Daly replied: "I refuse to affirm or deny that statement."

Joseph P. Manning, chairman of trustees, said: "She gave no reason in her written resignation. On the whole I believe she was tired out, not physically perhaps, but mental-

BRITISH-SOVIET TO EXCHANGE AMBASSADORS

Countries Apart for Years Make First Move Toward Peace

London, Eng., Oct. 1 (AP)—Great Britain and Russia today agreed to an exchange of ambassadors, thus paving the way for full resumption of trade and commercial relations between the two countries.

The agreement, which is subject to parliamentary approval in England, was reached in a secret meeting here between Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson of Great Britain and Russian Ambassador Valerian Dovgalevsky who came from his post. The necessary documents are being prepared for signature before M. Dovgalevsky returns to Paris on Friday.

Great Britain's acceptance of the appointment of ambassadors before taking up the actual negotiations on outstanding questions removed the objection which Russia made in blocking off the negotiations early in August.

The agreement today included an understanding regarding propaganda. It will become operative when Parliament has sanctioned it.

The outstanding questions included commercial treaty claims and counter-claims, debts arising from the revolutions of 1917 and financial problems connected with the claims.

Well-informed circles believe that complete diplomatic intercourse between the two countries will be resumed shortly after Parliament reassembles October 28.

The procedure for dealing with controverted questions after resumption of full diplomatic relations has been agreed upon.

Cardinal's Body Is Taken to Cathedral

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP)—After eight days' mourning and funeral solemnity the body of Cardinal Dubois was carried in a procession from the archbishopric to his cathedral, Notre Dame, today. The pale of streets was crowded with the faithful, hats off in a drizzling rain.

Cardinal Charost solemnized the mass, assisted by all the French cardinals. The church dignitaries met the cortege at the entrance to the cathedral where after the funeral service the public passed before the bier.

COLLEGE GIRL MISSING; FOUL PLAY FEARED

Bridgewater Normal School Student Vanishes While on Visit to Home

Vanished without leaving a clue behind, Doris Sherman, 18, Bridgewater normal school freshman, was sought today in state and city police of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York.

Fear for her safety increased hourly as well-organized investigation and search failed completely to unearth either a motive for her disappearance or a clue to her whereabouts.

The petite and pretty Attleboro girl disappeared last Friday afternoon after stepping from a Taunton bus in Providence, where she had gone to visit her grandparents, a week-end custom of long standing with her, today as two theories after questioning of Doris' relatives.

Arthur C. Boyd, principal of the Bridgewater training school for teachers, believed the student might have had a sudden desire to be independent of the support of her parents and run away from home and studies to obtain work.

HINT AT FOUL PLAY

Police after long questioning of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Sherman of 31 Horton st., Attleboro, and after interviewing her student companions and other relatives, were inclined to the theory of foul play.

There was no substantial basis

Ward, Mulhern Fight for 'Cruiser' Taxis

A bitter denunciation of [illegible] against independent taxicab drivers featured the [illegible] hearing today before the special commission created by the Legislature to investigate taxicab conditions in Boston.

Senator Michael J. Ward charged that the police were trying to "paint the Independents black and exempt the employes of white" as a matter of [illegible] fellows out of business.

It was to be expected, he said, that a business bringing approximately $250,000 to the hotels for use of the public streets would be defended by the hotels.

WARNED BY CHAIRMAN

Chairman George Mouse warned against rash statements on penalty of being put under oath and said a checkup by the Traffic Commission showed no distinction between independents and companies violating city ordinances.

"I could go into that," said Ward, "but I don't want to because I'm political."

HOLD 'BRAINS' IN $512,000 THEFT IN BOSTON

Suspect in Reinstein Killing Admits New York Crime; Vice "King" Hunted

While an arrest was hourly expected of the head of the vice ring at whose door $4 murders are laid, Boston police today arrested Carl Forman, wanted in New York in connection with a $512,000 bond robbery.

Taken from a Huntington ave. lodging house on charges of being implicated in the Samuel Reinstein slaying, Forman admitted his identity as the "brains" of the band that robbed R. V. Hiscox & Co. Broadway brokers.

He had secluded himself in his room since September 21, not even venturing to the street at night, and only a mustache, a mustache and beard for disguise when an anonymous tip to Capt. John M. Anderson of Division 16 resulted in his arrest.

The arrest was made by Sergt. Louis Fiore, Jr., and Special Officers Hart and Elrood who broke down the room door in the belief that the second man was one of the Newman brothers, wanted for the Reinstein killing.

STAYED IN HIDING

After examining the prisoner and communicating with New York, police were inclined to believe Forman had no connection with the Hotel Huntington murder, one of the 84 fee which the vice head is to be held responsible.

The bond robbery occurred on September 20, when Milton Alser, 72, a messenger, turned over the half-million-dollar fortune to Forman. Since that time all except $50,000 worth have been recovered.

According to the lodging house proprietor, Forman took the Huntington apartment on September 21, the day following the robbery, which was eight days after the killing of Reinstein.

What may have been a coincidence was the fact that Forman assumed the name of Samuel Harris, which was that used by Reinstein in New York.

New York police were notified and announced they were sending a detective here to take Forman back for trial.

At the same time Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas T. Cahill, who returned to New York from Boston, where he conferred with federal authorities, announced a federal grand jury will take up the vice ring case later in the week. Several persons believed to have been connected with the ring in the New York end of the circuit will be called as witnesses, Cooke said.

HUNT FOR "COCKEYE."

From Pennsylvania came word that the State constabulary has entered the hunt for the leader of the vice ring, whose arrest is expected somewhat on the circuit extending from that State to Boston and New York.

This man, known as "Cockeye," is believed to be hiding in the hills of the vicinity of the Lehigh Valley in Pennsylvania, where for more than 20 years he has dominated a huge "white slave" ring whose ramifications extend into Boston.

He is known to be a political power as well as a criminal, and is said to have a contact with a public official of Pennsylvania which has heretofore saved him from arrest.

He is sought for questioning concerning the working of the ring in Boston and other Eastern cities, and also for information regarding the slaying of Reinstein.

"KING" FOR 22 YEARS

According to information obtained by the Boston Evening American, Cockeye has ruled the "white slave" ring for 22 years and has sentenced both men and women to death many times.

A string of unsolved murders running through the past decade is said to be evidence of the power and immunity from arrest of this mysterious underworld figure, whose talons have stretched from the fastnesses of Pennsylvania hills

FIVE HOUSES ARE SWEPT BY FIRE

Five dwelling houses were destroyed and a score of others imperiled when a general alarm fire starting in a shed owned by the South Shore Ice Co., swept through four tenements on Flax pond, Lynn and spread into Boulder st.

While the flames raged, women and children living in the tenements carried household belongings into the street, fearing the spread of the blaze.

Help was summoned from Swampscott and Nahant, but the flames had made a great headway and firemen confined their efforts to saving houses in the neighborhood.

The homes of P. M. Dubois, Mrs. Joseph Lamoreaux, William J. McGlannery and Samuel Goodwin, all on Boulder st., were destroyed.

Mrs. Emma Barker, 82, who lived in the home of Dubois nearly lost her life attempting to remove valuables from the blazing house.

Fire officials said the damage would be more than $100,000. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

He added he did not call Mr. Kellogg that in public.

Robinson then continued his questioning about the campaign Shearer said that Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, had "jumped on the navy views of Herbert Hoover so as to proceed in his acceptance address, and I wrote an open letter in reply."

Archer and others, he added, had not the letter, explaining that this had prompted the party's action in the campaign in Massachusetts.

Mr. Archer: "Are Moses' assertions true?"

Shearer: "Yes, sir, they were at that time."

Robinson inquired into the break with the shipbuilding in December, 1927. Shearer said he was sent to Washington by Wickwire and Frederick E. Paley "to set up my permanent residence."

"I was to be the big fellow," he said.

Shearer told of meeting Paley and the others in New York. They said a New York World reporter was going to make a story. They and the reporter had been to Bethlehem and Secretary Kellogg had called Bethlehem on the mat and told them to get rid of me. So, they said I had better get out until it blew over.

"I then got Paley alone and asked him to behind closed doors.

"He said Schwab doesn't want to be connected with this big navy business."

Archer also sent to newspapers 2000 copies of the "Navy and the People," the witness said, and then it was that he was instructed to go to Boston to assist in the campaign.

MOSES SENT HIM

"Who sent you?" Robinson demanded.

"Senator Moses and Mr. Archer," Shearer replied, adding that Archer had written him his story on "Sea Power" should "interest your Irish friends."

"Senator Moses, Congressman Bacon and Mr. Archer asked me to go to Boston. I reported myself to Mr. Liggett in Boston (Republican national committeeman), who had been told I was coming. I went to see a number of Republican papers and all the Democratic papers.

"I went over to the Charlestown Navy Yard and procured a model of building with officials. I got a considerable amount of publicity and passed out a great number of the Sea Power pamphlet, which was published in the Gaelic American.

"I was really getting the Irish interested," said Shearer.

Robinson read from Shearer's "open letter" the statement that Great Britain "has enough ships to sweep the seas."

ALLEN SOUGHT AID

"Anti-British propaganda, Robinson interjected.

"Pro-American, I would call it," replied Shearer.

"That was sent out as campaign matter, to influence the election?"

"Yes, sir."

"Once Archer told me Senator Allen wanted to see me," continued Shearer. "I went to see him and he said I should be out making speeches for Mr. Hoover."

Shearer then told of his difficulties with his shipbuilding employers. Wakeman told him he had to do everything he could to keep me from making a living.

"Once you get on their black book you're lost," he said.

"DIDN'T FOOL IRISH"

Senator Allen stroked Shearer that "I suggested that you go out and make speeches because I didn't want you around the headquarters."

"Why didn't you say so?" Shearer asked.

"I wanted to be polite."

Allen here continued to tell Shearer that he "didn't fool the 'simple Irish' in Boston, as Shearer said he was expected to do by the Republicans.

"But I did, the 'simple Irish' nearly turned the election in Massachusetts," Shearer replied.

"I object to the term 'the simple Irish,'" Shorthridge interrupted.

SHIP IN PERIL OFF MIAMI; 22 MEN ABOARD

Hurricane Sweeping Over Alabama and Georgia; May Head Up Coast

Miami, Fla., Oct. 1 (AP)—Distress signals from the tug Balche, with 22 men aboard, towing the oil barge Tisilene from Smiths Bluff, Texas, to Tampa, were picked up by the Tropical Radio station here today. A coast guard boat has gone to her aid.

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Bahamian hurricane which lashed this territory as it passed inland from the Gulf of Mexico was blowing across eastern Alabama and through Georgia today in a fury of rain.

Greenville, Ga., reported a wind of gale force, which was accompanied by a downpour.

Latest reports indicated the storm was curving back toward the Atlantic coast. Storm warnings have been ordered raised as far north as the Virginia Capes.

Damage in this city was confined to trees and telephone poles, despite the fact that weather bureau measurements showed gusts of wind up to 102 miles an hour and an average velocity of 74 miles. Extensive preparations for the hurricane were believed to have prevented greater destruction here.

Camp Walton and Apalachicola bore the brunt of the hurricane in Florida. An exact estimate of the damage in these places is unknown as all communication facilities between this city and the two points are down.

Brewton and Flomaton, Alabama, reported slight damage from high winds.

Pollard was isolated. Other points in south central Alabama reported little damage.

Mobile, which had been under the spell of the hurricane scare since Sunday, today was removing boards from plate glass windows and doors and resuming maritime activities for the first time in 48 hours.

The official weather bureau announcement that the hurricane had missed the city brought expressions of relief from the city's thousands.

Opinion that the storm may manage to regain the Atlantic ocean was expressed by Weather Forecaster Von Hermann of Atlanta, Ga., who said that while the disturbance might head itself out on land, there was a possibility it might re-enter the ocean at the Hatteras country and whip back into gale force.

$28,000,000 IS STATE INCOME TAX TOTAL

Huge Total Laid to Stock Market Winnings by Commissioner

A total of $28,388,782.32, an increase of almost $5,000,000 over last year and the largest net tax in Massachusetts history, is the 1929 income tax levy in this state, according to announcement by Comr. Henry F. Long.

Gains by Massachusetts citizens on the booming stock market in 1928 are responsible for the increase, as for the progressive advance in state income tax receipts during the past few years, the commissioner believes.

According to Comr. Long, an average of $18,000,000 is about all the state could expect from income taxes in a normal period. Receipts of about $10,000,000 are, therefore, traceable this year to stock market operations, he points out.

In 1917, the first year that the state income tax replaced the old tax on intangibles, the total levy was only $12,823,192.98.

It rose for several years, then fell off in 1922 and 1924. Since then there has been a steady upward trend: $17,142,141 in 1924, $16,992,588 in 1926, $12,151,290 in 1926, $21,427,169 in 1927 and $23,790,693 in 1928.

The large totals since 1926 are due almost wholly, Long finds, to the public getting into the stock market.

The item which shows the biggest advance in the 3 per cent tax on profits from the sale of securities. These taxing totals are swollen by the increased receipts from the 6 per cent tax on interest and dividends from certain exempt securities.

As 296,573 persons in the State are shown to have filed returns this year, the tax average per person is $71.58. Because of exemptions, however, some of those filing returns will pay no tax. The total number of income taxpayers for 1929 is estimated at 248,573.

Indication that the income tax collection in 1930 will at least be kept to the same high level by profit taking in the stock market is found in records of sale of stamps for the excise tax of 2 per cent on the transfer of stock certificates.

Up to September 1, this year, the receipts from the sale of stamps was $488,330, which, with three months to go, promises a total of $650,000 or more. The total yield from this source in 1928 was $560,704.32, and that was the highest ever.

In one form or another, all income tax receipts are distributed among the cities and towns, and the formula governing the totals to be raised the amounts coming to their respective communities from the State is the basic figure for local tax rates.

Increased receipts levied from the new automobile excise tax, plus the larger State income tax rates, will be of considerable benefit for the lower tax rates this year in the municipalities.

ly. There have been several trying situations at the hospital and two recent investigations, one by the Civic Council and another by a special committee appointed by Mayor Nichols.

Questioned regarding that possibility, Miss Daly, who has been at the hospital 18 years, 10 years in charge of the training school said: "If it was the need of a year, they would be too much to expect that after years of service the institution might grant me a leave of absence to obtain that rest."

GOING ELSEWHERE

She also made clear that she did not intend to withdraw from nursing, but would practice her profession elsewhere although she has no definite plans for the future.

When Dr. John J. Dowling, superintendent of the hospital, was asked the reason for Miss Daly's resignation he replied enigmatically that she resigned to the trustees not to the superintendent.

The two colored girls, Frances Harris, 19, of 190 Harrison av., Roxbury, and Letitia Campfield of Gorham st., North Cambridge, were admitted to the City Hospital as student nurses on September 16. They applied for admission last March and were accepted, setting precedent at the hospital, following investigations conducted by the trustees and a committee of colored physicians and citizens.

RESENTED BY OTHERS.

At the time of their appointment it was reported that certain nurses, along on the hospital staff, did not favor the appointments.

Dr. Dowling said at the time: "The colored girls will be received the same as any other white girls and will enjoy equal privileges and rights. They will be given quarters in the nurses' dormitory and will probably live together in the same room."

Miss Daly served overseas 12 months during the World War and is a member of the American Legion. She is president of the Massachusetts League of Nursing Education, vice-president of the New England division of the American Nurses' Association and vice-president of the Massachusetts State Nurses' Association.

As head of the staff of 300 to 200 nurses and of the training school at the hospital she has trained thousands of girls.

into Boston, New York and other cities.

From what can be learned he was on friendly terms with the Neuman brothers, for the killing of one of whom Reinstein was shot to death in a Boston hotel.

Officials have reason to believe that he is fully acquainted with events leading up to the slaying of Reinstein who was shot in the erroneous belief that he had caused the murder of Eddie "Duke" Neuman.

"Cockeye" was brought into the case as a result of information obtained by Dist. Atty. William F. Foley and his chief assistant, Frederick T. Doyle.

U. S. MEN GET DATA.

This information was turned over to U. S. Atty. Frederick H. Tate and his assistants, Hubert Locke and John W. Schenck, who are conducting the white slave inquiry.

By them it was relayed to New York and Pennsylvania federal and local authorities, and the hunt for Cockeye was started. Participating in it is Inspector Timothy Donovan of Boston, who has been in Pennsylvania for two weeks under orders of Dist. Atty. Foley.

HAS HIS "ARMY."

Officials are combing the hills for at least 20 hideouts in the vicinity of Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown and Portsville.

Cockeye is said to be about 50, unscrupulous and merciless, and it is expected the officers will have difficulty in taking him.

He is said to be protected by a bodyguard of gunmen and has spies and followers scattered throughout the coal and steel districts.

for emphasis on either one or the other. Doris was always happy and carefree, known among her companions as a "home girl. She had no special "boy friend" of whom any of her intimates were aware. She was high in her studies, having graduated with honors from Attleboro High School last June and her domestic life was without any shadow that police have been able to discover.

With reference to the belief of Principal Arthur Boyd that she may have run away to become dependent, police were unable to learn that she had ever expressed to anyone discontent with her studies or her mode of life.

POLICE AID SEARCH

Rhode Island and Connecticut state police entered the search today at the request of Inspector Claude Tidd of the Providence police, who has been directing the search.

Tidd also arranged for a wide-spread radio broadcast of the description of the missing student.

On the possibility that Doris left Providence soon after arriving there, police are checking all classes of buses and crews of trains which left Union station Friday evening.

Doris is five feet one inch in height and weighs 100 pounds. Her hair is medium brown and bobbed, her eyes are brown and she has light complexion. On the left side of her face, near her chin, she has a small mole that might aid identification.

When she dropped from sight she was wearing a green hat, close-fitting, a tan checked coat and a tan dress with red trimmings. She had no other clothing with her.

The three weeks Doris had been at Bridgewater Normal School constituted the first period she had ever been away from home except in the company of one of her relatives.

VANISHES ON VISIT.

During the summer she had visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cohen, of 140 Orms st., Providence, almost every week-end, sometimes remaining overnight, sometimes returning on the same day. Last Saturday, or Sunday, to her home in Attleboro. With two fellow students she left Bridgewater Friday afternoon on a train for Taunton. During the ride she told her companions that she was going first to Providence to visit her grandfather and then home, the same evening.

At Taunton she transferred to a Providence-bound bus. It has been definitely established through police questioning of the bus driver that the girl reached Providence that evening.

On reaching Providence the girl alighted at the Union station a few minutes before 8 o'clock. That was the stop she definitely would get off at if she intended visiting the home of her grandparents.

Nobody has been found who has seen her since.

When she did not arrive home Friday night her father communicated with her grandfather and learned she was not at the Providence home. Boston and New York relatives were [illegible] by telephone and declared they had not seen her.

Police of Attleboro, Bridgewater and Providence were notified and Chief and Mrs. Sherman went to the latter city after receiving information that the girl had reached there. The police cooperated with police in the search, visiting hotels and rooming houses. He returned to Attleboro on Monday leaving Mrs. Sherman in Providence.

MOTHER NEAR COLLAPSE.

The girl's mother, in delicate health for several years, is in a physical state bordering on collapse.

Police at Bridgewater searched her room at the school a second time today and failed to turn up a clue affecting her disappearance. There were no letters except from her relatives. The room was in good order and contained all her belongings except the clothes she wore and a note book used in classes.

The final play theory was accepted as the only logical one by Jacob Cohen, her grandfather.

"If she could, it is certain that she would notify her relatives as to her whereabouts," he said. "There was no cause for her leaving home. She was very efficient in school. She enjoyed good health and was not nervous. She had an even temperament, a happy disposition and was not at all inclined to be morbid. Nor was she keeping company with any young man of whom we were aware.

"He said there was no possibility that his granddaughter took her own life.

"She had everything to live for and nothing to die for," he said.

Who's Boss, Duce or King? Yank Worried

Rome, Oct. 1 (INS). A delicate problem in diplomatic etiquette has arisen over whether the new American ambassador, John Work Garrett, is to show precedence to Premier Mussolini or King Victor Emmanuel in presenting his credentials.

Alexander Kirk, charge d'affaires at the American embassy, and the Italian minister of foreign affairs, Dino Grandi, have devoted two sittings to discussing this very matter. The question troubling Kirk is whether Ambassador Garrett's introduction to H. Duce shall precede that to the king, or vice versa.

WARD DEFENDS TAXI DRIVERS

on charged that testimony by the police commissioned himself was given to "muddle" the issue.

He advised the commission to talk with municipal court officers and with the district attorney's office, to get the true story about the class of taxi drivers the police are "bringing in."

GETS AFTER WILSON.

He said the police commissioner knew little about what the taxi companies are paying the hosts and was vague as to maximum rates.

Mulhern said the present system of allowing favored companies to occupy choice stands was "un-American in principle" and he called payments to hosts for use of public streets "indefensible."

"The only way out of the situation, he said, was public stands, open to everybody, with strict enforcement of rules and regulations by the police.

FAVORED BY DEWEY

Judd Dewey, Boston attorney, as an individual, said he favored open stands. He said he first became interested in 1914 by E. A. Filene, who felt Boston merchants were losing business because of the taxi rates.

When the subject came before the Legislature at that time he continued, former Police Commissioner O'Meara opposed open stands and the committee bowed to his judgment.

Dewey charged, he said. Where there were only a few taxis then today there are a large number of independents in a responsible association, giving good service at reasonable rates.

"If the independents and cruising are abolished, would the public demand for service be satisfied?" asked Commissioner Felix Rackemann.

"No," replied Dewey. "It's a great convenience to be able to hail a cab on the streets when you want one."

Picture of Ex-Head Given School Board

Webster Has $20,000 Casket Plant Fire

Webster, Oct. 21 (AP). The Middlesex Casket Company's plant was damaged $20,000 today by fire of undetermined origin which had gained great headway in the boiler room before being discovered by the night watchman.

The fact that the building was filled with kiln dried lumber made it difficult for the firemen to quench the blaze, which raged two hours.

Investment Trust in Chicago to Have 315 Millions

Chicago, Oct. 1—It is understood in authoritative financial circles here that the Dawes banking interests, the Central Trust Co. and its investment affiliate, Central Illinois Co., are planning an investment trust, to be made public in the near future. It will be at least a $315,000,000 corporation and also is expected to have on its board a prominent group of Chicago and midwest bankers.

HUNT COSTE IN SIBERIAN WILDS

Moscow, Oct. 1 (AP). Belief that Dieudonne Coste, flier, is lost in the region between Irkutsk and Takutsk, in Siberia, was voiced in aviation circles. Reps have been taken to find and assist him.

It was believed that Coste, after passing Novo-Sibirsk, lost his way. His plane took a course to the north instead of to the east and at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon was seen over Kirensky, about 430 miles northeast of Irkutsk, in the direction of Yakutsk.

The sighting over Kirensk was approximately 48 hours after his departure from LeBourget, leaving the flyers only a small margin of fuel for the 6,000 miles of that Coste was compelled to land near Taiga and the search is centralizing there.

Pastor Denies Press Is to Blame for Crime Wave

"The newspaper does not bring crime to the front. It is persons into it," said the Rev. Vivian T. Pomeroy of Milton today on the subject in King's Chapel, Boston.

"I have no sympathy for the persons who are constantly criticising the daily press and making statements to the effect that the press lures persons to crime. Such statements are ridiculous.

"The newspaper is a quiet messenger of what is going on overestimate its value."

Rayon Man Dead, Wrists Slashed

Elizabethton, Tenn., Oct. 1 (AP). Konrad W. O. Kummer, managing president of the American Bemberg and the American Glanzstoff corporations, rayon plants, was found dead in bed today. His wrists had been slashed and a blood-stained razor was found in his room.

Dr. J. B. Shoun and a Dr. Baughman, physicians, said it looked like a clear case of suicide. Members of the nurses' dormitory and staff will probably live together in the same room.

Miss Daly served overseas 12 months during the World War and is a member of the American Legion. She is president of the Massachusetts League of Nursing Education, vice-president of the New England division of the American Nurses' Association and vice-president of the Massachusetts State Nurses' Association.

As head of the staff of 300 to 200 nurses and of the training school at the hospital she has trained thousands of girls.

Communists Speak to Ludlow Strikers

Ludlow, Oct. 1 (AP). Two men, said to be Communist leaders, took a hand today and addressed about 100 striking women spinners of No. 8 mill of the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates. The strikers paraded, led by one of these supposed Communists, without disorder or police interference. As far as can be ascertained, there has been no effort to discuss a settlement with the mill management.

The strike this afternoon extended to the No. 11 mill when a group of spinners failed to return.

Boston Battles Los Angeles for Legion Convention in 1930

30,000 VETS IN PARADE AT LOUISVILLE

Line Files by the Reviewing Stand of Comdr. McNutt for Six Long Hours

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 1 (AP)—Men who dodged hitherto fast-flying shell-torn roads in France today kept step with a thousand drums in honor of a memory and for the entertainment of a host of applauding onlookers.

More than 30,000 men who were on the Base of 1918 passed the reviewing stand in the parade of the Eleventh National American Legion Convention.

It was a six-hour parade for every delegation was at its allotted place at 10 a. m. and the official closing time was 4 p. m. The line extended from the Memorial Auditorium, a few blocks from the downtown district, three miles out Third st. to the campus of the University of Louisville.

In the parade were approximately 100 drum and bugle corps and almost half as many full-fledged bands, representing all 48 states. The members, whose hair already is graying or growing thin, wore uniforms of many spectacular and uncomfortable. Some sported fur shakoes, but for the most part, the headgear consisted of visored caps, polished to mirror-like brightness.

REVIEWED BY McNUTT.

The tasks and the work that went before, of discomfort, the American overseas cap, adopted by the American Legion as its only official cover, to ensure a part of the head without keeping out the sunlight or affording protection against the elements.

But the 30,000 men walked on the hard asphalt with smiles and snapped to attention and eyes right when they were abreast the fighting men as they passed the reviewing stand where National Commander Paul V. McNutt, other officers and distinguished guests returned the salutes.

Brigadier General Fliehr Carter of Louisville was grand marshal and next came Colonel Stafford, immediate past national commander.

The two natural champion musical organizations of the 1924 convention led the marchers. The Mason Rhea Drum Corps in white uniforms with black leggings and gaily Bronco hats and white helmets played under the direction of Cheour LaMonica and the Wichita, Kans., band had a place of honor along with it.

CAPITAL IN LEAD

In order of precedence won by membership and other work during the year came the state delegations and the foreign departments. The District of Columbia was first. Then Minnesota, Alabama was third, and California followed with a float representing a relief map of the state that claims mountains, beaches and other object lessons in physical geography. Wyoming cowboys followed, preparing the way, as it were, for the cowboys and cowgirls of Texas, led by the famous old Gray Mare band, which not only played the tune, but produced the old stage mare herself ridden by a Texas belle.

Hawaii, in the Pacific, was represented. Italy and France across the Atlantic. Pennsylvania with 4000 visitors and Iowa with 1000, Indiana and Ohio with more representation than the home state of Kentucky.

Dorris Reed's handful of veterans were followed by those of the Blue Grass state, deferring to all others and marching last.

HUB FIGHTS FOR 1930

Four streets and an area of 16 blocks were needed to dismiss the marchers, the line being broken up after passing the reviewing stand in front of the massive old colonial courthouse. Some marchers were sent into each of the side streets to hear the welcome "fall out."

Even as the legionnaires marched preparations were under way for the two big fights on the floor of the convention—selection of the next convention city and election of national officers.

The 1930 gathering will be either at Boston or at Los Angeles.

Election of officers comes on Thursday. Mentioned most frequently for commander are O. L. Bodenhamer, Eldorado, Ark.; Albert L. Cox, Raleigh, N. C.; Ralph T. O'Neil, Topeka, Kan., and Ned White, Connecticut.

Caucuses of state delegations have left the commander's race and the selection of the convention city up in the air, although Pennsylvania and Iowa, with a total of 1½ votes, are boosting Boston.

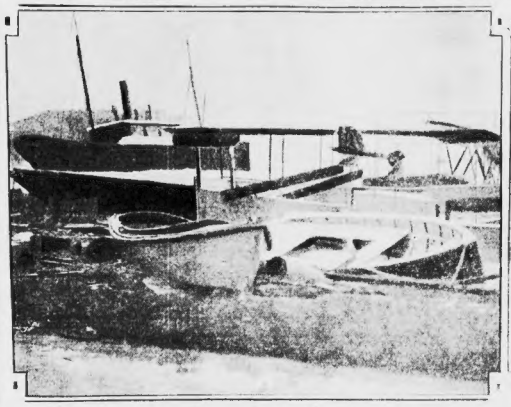
Ludlow, Oct. 1—Seventy-five spinners walked out of No. 6 mill of the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates as a protest against a double work system, instituted, according to mill officials, as an experiment.

As the Tail End of Hurricane Swept Over Miami and Vicinity



Although Miami escaped a repetition of the devastation that resulted from last year's hurricane, considerable damage was done when the tail end of a hurricane swept over the city last Sunday. This is a scene along the waterfront.

Miami streets were flooded by the drenching rain that accompanied the 60-mile gale. The city had well prepared for the storm. No loss of life in Miami was reported. Photo shows a residential section at the height of the storm. (International Newsreel photos.)

Policy, Not Strength, Crux of Navy Parley

By NORMAN ANGELL, M. P.

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

Aboard S. S. Berengaria with Premier MacDonald, Oct. 1—Radio via Portishead—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, confident that he and President Hoover can agree upon the program of naval limitations, will not depend on any British naval advisers in Washington. This was authoritatively disclosed during an intimate chat at luncheon.

That the agreement to be reached in Washington regarding limitation and reduction will be one of policy and mutual confidence was pointedly brought out when an American fellow passenger asked:

"Where are the naval experts in the premier's party?" Since he is making a naval agreement he will want the advice of admirals."

The inquirer was honestly skeptical when told that, though the premier has several secretaries and officials with him, there is no naval advisor.

The reason is plain. If there can be an agreement on policy—the purpose for which present-day navies are being used—Britain would be no more disturbed by American strength or America by British than New York is disturbed when Philadelphia increases its police force.

POLICY NECESSARY

If there can be no agreement on ultimate policy, if purpose come into serious conflict, no pact or limitation or reduction will be of long duration.

One feels that the result we all desire would be more certain if some of the old fallacies did not still survive. There has been good will in the past. Wars are not made by bad men intending evil, but by good men defending what they believe their nation's rights. And the other fellow is equally convinced he is defending his rights. Each sincerely feels he is he is claiming for himself what he is denying others.

To answer this ultimate political question, admirals are no more specially qualified than bishops or bootblacks. Indeed, no single meeting between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald can settle it. But such a meeting can raise it to the plane where it can be settled.

The two peoples themselves must decide what they want to do with their power, and whether the things they want to do need collide.

The passenger who inquired about naval advisers was sure that, ultimately, collision must come, because states which had the power to prevent it would not tamely submit to the thwarting commercial rivalry of others. This

British Ship Grounds in St. Lawrence River

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The 2747-ton British freighter Norbiton, bound from Montreal for Rosario, Argentina, without cargo, is aground two miles west of Cape Charity, 20 miles from Quebec, in the St. Lawrence river, offices of the Merritt Chapman-Scott said today.

The salvage steamer Lord Strath-cona is alongside.

Ships Arrive With Big Mackerel Catch

One of the largest aggregate yields of mackerel of any one day this season was brought to the Boston fish pier when 21 vessels arrived with catches totalling 702,000 pounds.

The day's receipts, unusually heavy in view of the latene s of the season, caused prices to be quoted at three and four cents a pound.

GETS YEAR FOR FLEEING RAID

Angelo Fiandaca of Peach st., Fields Corner, who, it was claimed was seen running away from the rear of the "spitting place" recently, was before Judge Frederic Greene Bowell for violation of probation and he was ordered turned to jail on Worcester for a year and a day.

Fiandaca, Dennis Pendola and Guido Tramontozzi, junior and a Mrs. Tramontozzi, were arrested in a raid on the place. The latter was given a two year probation and fine on pleading guilty to keeping a common nuisance.

Probation Agent John Hall and Inspector Sullivan of the police department visited the place and found the three there. Fiandaca, it was claimed, was later brought in and identified by Federal Probation Officer McSweeney.

Quits Beauty Shop to Become 'LadyBarber'

Providence, Oct. 1—Because men are more generous than women, "less vain," and "just as comfortable," Mrs. Zoila Arnold, veteran beauty shop attendant, has quit her female patrons flat and has boldly busted into the business of barbering in a shop with a 100 per cent male clientele.

Mrs. Arnold believes she is the first woman in Rhode Island to learn and practice the shave-and-haircut trade. She started out doing apprentice work in a barber shop on Cheapside st., but established a open to the public.

"I have always somehow wanted to be a barber. Among the women I have been needing all their lives," said Mrs. Arnold today. "The girls all flock to male hairdressers and get a great kick out of it. Why shouldn't friend husband have his whiskers whittled off by someone with a skin he likes to touch?

Men are people. They tell you what they want, then sit and take it. They don't kick and they always tip. And there's one more thing. They're regular. You can count on them. They don't avoid you when your wedding anniversary, their daughter's coming out party to get shaved."

Plan for Sacred Service in Japan

Uji-Yamada, Japan, Oct. 1 — A period of unwonted noise and activity in the normally silent, peaceful groves, in Ise to near an end, for all is in readiness for the Shikinen Sengu, the great removal of the holiest shrines of Shinto a rite held once every 20 years. In accordance with sacred law, the new shrines have been built and the Sacred Mirror, the Temple of the Sun Goddess, highest deity of the national pantheon, will be moved to their new home the night of October 2.

Inventor of Fountain Pen Dies at Age of 79

Bloomfield, N. J., Oct. 1—Warren Lancaster, said to have patented the first fountain pen in this country, died in East Orange Hospital. He was 79 years old. He was born in Portland, Me., and lived in Baltimore most of his life.

Since the destruction of his factory in the Baltimore fire he served a private clientele with pens. Lancaster, said to have patented the first pen 48 years ago, unsuccessfully conducted law suits against several prominent fountain pen manufacturers.

Jews Balk at Order to Return to Homes

Jerusalem, Oct. 1—Although Jewish refugees from the Jerusalem suburbs and the old city have been ordered to return immediately to their homes, many are reluctant to return, claiming their neighborhoods are unsafe.

The order came from Deputy Commissioner Keith-Roach of Jerusalem, acting on instructions from the high commissioner, Sir John Chancellor.

Colbert Funeral Held Tomorrow

The funeral of Charles E. Colbert, one of the oldest undertakers in Boston, who died at his home, 33 Mayfield st., Dorchester, aged 81, will be held tomorrow morning. Burial will be in Hollybood Cemetery, Brookline, following a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Matthew's Church, Dorchester, at 9.

Lock Store Keeper In His Own Ice-Box

Providence, Oct. 1—Locked in his own ice-box, Valenty Kazara, Chalkstone ave. provision dealer, peered helplessly through the tiny window and watched the "customers" who had trapped him loot the cash drawer of $26.

Police were searching for the thief today, acting on a thorough description furnished them by the grocer victim.

Kazara walked into his cold storage compartment to get a ham for the supposed patron. The latter bolted the ice box door from the outside. A neighbor's child finally released the storeman.

Al Smith's Nephew Held as Gun-Flasher

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Vincent Glynn, an assistant deputy sheriff and nephew of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, was arrested today charged with third degree assault after he was alleged to have attacked two employes in the Pierpont Hotel, Brooklyn. It was also charged that he drew his revolver, but the weapon was found to be unloaded.

Police said Glynn became involved in an argument with William Martin, a clerk, and Leon H. Isaidwell an auditor, and the assaults followed.

Thousands Delayed by Tieup in Tunnel

All Cambridge-bound trains in the tunnel were at a standstill for 20 minutes at the beginning of the rush period this morning, when a train became disabled at the Broadway station in South Boston.

Several thousand commuters choked Andrew sq., Fields Corner and Ashmont stations of the tunnel line with lesser crowds at the others, until repairs were made and traffic resumed.

RECEIVER FOR A 110-MILLION CO.

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A receivership for the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, with assets in excess of $110,000,000, was ordered in United States district court today.

Charles Hayden, chairman of the board and of the reorganization committee, said the plan of reorganization would be presented to the court.

Owing to inability to meet the maturity of $25,000,000 in debentures on January 1, a plan of reorganization was submitted last summer. The security holders were slow to deposit their holdings under the plan.

The company owns or controls more than 800,000 acres of sugar-producing lands and nearly 50 miles of railroad in Cuba. Owing to the depression in the industry, recent earnings have been unsatisfactory. Net income last year was but $214,000. In 1926 there was a net loss of $1,862,000.

Mr. Hayden said he believed the receivership would benefit the company and the security holders who deposited their holdings under the plan.

Goodyear Balloon Apparently Winner

St. Louis, Oct. 1 (AP)—Traveling on the greatest distance yet recorded in the Gordon Bennett international balloon races, Ward T. Van Orman, civilian pilot of the Goodyear VIII, was the apparent winner of the 15th renewal, which started here Saturday. The air board of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce compiled his mileage at a point three miles south of Troy, O., as 335 miles.

The other two American entrants also reached Ohio, while the six foreign balloons landed in Indiana or Illinois.

SERIES SELLOUT SETS RECORD

Chicago, Oct. 1 (INS)—Close to $3,500,000 was the estimated total of successful applicants for World Series tickets today as the 40,000 sets of pasteboards were mailed to the lucky subscribers.

The total represents a new mark in World's Series returns. Last year the management of the St. Louis Cardinals mailed back between $300,000 and $400,000 to unsuccessful fans.

When the last drawing had been made, there were 22,801 orders unfilled, representing 45,000 tickets, or two an order, according to William Veeck, Cub president.

Duce Hears Terms of Eastman's Gift

Rome, Oct. 1 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today received a report on the terms of a $1,000,000 donation by George Eastman of Rochester, N. Y., for a dental clinic in Rome.

The Rome dispensary will be similar in many respects to the Rochester dental dispensary and the Eastman dental clinic of London, both of which were created by Eastman's gifts.

Hold Hearing on Tax Appeal Board

The special commission on taxation will hold a public hearing in Room 432, State House, Thursday, October 3 at 10:30 a. m. on a proposed bill for the establishment of a permanent board of tax appeals. PANTAGES GOES ON TRIAL FOR GIRL ATTACK

Dancer, 17, Accuses Millionaire Theater Man, but He Claims "Frameup"

Los Angeles, Oct. 1 (AP)—Alexander Pantages, 54, who ran a stake wrested from the Yukon in gold rush days to a $15,000,000 theatrical empire, faced trial today before Judge Fricke on two charges of attack on Eunice Pringle, 17, a dancer.

Pantages' efforts to postpone the ordeal until he has recovered from the physical strain of the trial were denied in his wife's conviction of incompetency and to obtain a change of venue failed.

At the time Miss Los Angeles Pantages won a five-day respite from judgment of the sentence of from one to 10 years in an San Quentin penitentiary provided by the state statutes for conviction, after attorney presented a motion for arrest of judgment upon which will be heard by Judge Hardy on Saturday.

WIFE'S BAIL $20,000.

A jury of five women and seven men held no responsible for the death after a collision of their automobiles June 16, of Jane Golubiuska, Japanese actress. She was carried to court in a wheel chair and allowed her freedom on $20,000 bond, after court physicians reported her condition precarious and improving.

Pantages is alleged to have attacked the dancer in his office August 5. The girl said she went to the vaudeville magnate for an interview by which she hoped to obtain her start in his circuit.

Miss Pringle and Pantages, with half a dozen witnesses, were taken to the police station after police were attracted to the theater office by screams.

CHARGES "FRAME UP"

Pantages spent one night in jail and was released on $50,000 bail charged the dancer had planned "to make you take me out." She declared the theater owner had offered to support a baby.

Pantages pleaded not guilty to a charge of criminal assault and attack. Court attaches said conviction on both charges probably would carry a sentence of 25 years imprisonment.

Miss Pringle, the daughter of a physician, was enrolled at the University of Southern California. She had a two weeks' tryout in the Pantages circuit but permanent booking of her act was refused.

W. F. WILLIAMS DIES SUDDENLY

New Bedford, Oct. 1 (AP)—William F. Williams, veteran commissioner of public works from 1922 to December, 1928, when he resigned in anticipation of his 70th birthday, died suddenly today of a heart attack. He was apparently quite well when he retired last night.

Since his retirement Mr. Williams had been active as a member of the commission to investigate grade crossings throughout the state, and was consulting engineer for two overlapping commissions.

Mr. Williams was appointed commissioner of public works by Governor Channing Cox. He was city engineer of New Bedford 29 years.

For a time while state commissioner of public works he was a chief figure in the controversy between Governor Fuller and Registrar Frank A. Goodwin.

He was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Boston Society of Civil Engineers.

Mr. Williams leaves two sons, Theodore F. Williams of New Bedford; Harold Williams, Larchmont, N. Y., and two daughter, Mrs. F. W. Oesting, Jr., of New Bedford, and Mrs. James M. Buchanan, Maplewood, N. J. A sister, Mrs. Edgar R. Lewis, lives in Prosser, Wash.

AVIATION BIG FEATURE AT THE FAIR

By GEORGE W. HAMBLIN

The celebrated Brockton Fair branches out in aviation this year in a manner heretofore unknown. The fair will carry an aviation program every day and will terminate Saturday with an air meet surpassed only by the National Air Races at Cleveland.

We have received a communication from James P. Keith, chairman of the aviation committee, asking us to serve on the aviation committee Saturday and we have accepted. Mr. Keith's kind offer. Although we don't know just what the service is in regards to Saturday down in the Shoe City we have a faint idea that the thousands of people who will attend the fair on that day will see some of the most spectacular stunt flying and parachute jumping ever witnessed at an affair of this kind.

The Curtiss Cadets, comprising Ralph T. Wickford, Adolph M. Rackstraw and Albert Sherman, will perform in Hedgehog flights in close fighting formation. We had a confab with the three pilots and were told that they were going to put on we were assured by a wink and a nod that stunts that the boys are planning to make the Hedgehog planes talk like a swarm of bees on the race, the Three Musketeers of the air, and the Marine Corps Trio that has thrilled spectators in every part of the country.

At 2:30 Saturday there will be a race for light planes and we understand that two Moths, a couple of Great Lakes and a Davis will be entered in the event. The Moths will be entered by Curtiss and Skyways, the Great Lakes by Andy Ivanoff and Ray St. Alouise, and the Davis by Walter Hamblin of Falmouth and Boston. Although we don't make any predictions as to the outcome of the race we are ready to wager that the Davis comes in somewhere near first.

At 3:30 there will be a race for Whirlwind jobs and we have not been advised as to the entries in the event. It is expected however, that at least seven Whirlwind motored airplanes will be competing in this race. An hour later will see plenty of airplanes of the U. S. Army racing over the 30-mile course.

The aviation program will come to a glorious conclusion at 5 o'clock when triple parachute jumps are made from a Curtiss tri-motor Ford. The names of the parachute jumpers have not been announced other than that of Forest Hall, who will have complete details on the parachute jump tomorrow.

While we're on the subject of sports and races it might not be out of place to make mention of the late Col. Walter Rogers, New England distributor of the Davis monoplane, stepping over and there, handling anything except airplanes, in as many places, one things and do people. Walter was several deals in mind that will make the Davis stock in New England go up about 100 per cent. Everybody who has flown the sweet little ship has raved about its performance and it won't take very much of that kind of hooking before the ship catches on and makes a name for itself. Engle has also entered the ship in the National Aeronautic Association air meet at Boston airport on Friday of this week.

With their Challenger plane will be no way to secure after a recent crack-up, the "three musketeers," Wm. Young, Wes Temple and George McDonald are busy with their Whirlwind-motored Travel Air equipped with night flying lights so that the ship can be used for cross-country trips at any hour of the day. This is the first attempt of any organization in the Boston district to have a ship equipped for night flying so that it can be used anywhere at any time.

Arrest 14 Alleged Bankrupt Frauds

New York, Oct. 1—Seven indictments, charging 14 New York business men with fraud, were returned by a federal grand jury investigating alleged irregularities in bankruptcy proceedings.

Most of the defendants are charged with concealment of assets from a trustee in bankruptcy. A few are charged with mail fraud.

Food and Drink to Foil U.S. of Europe Plan

Paris, Oct. 1 (AP)—Wine of temperance is the two main influences which have really thwarted Hitler upon the French temperament through its suppression according to Dr. L. Piessinger, member of the French Academy of Medicine, writing in Le Figaro.

The German aim to accomplish this end, Dr. Piessinger says, is to abolish anything except non-alcoholic drinks and nurses, since the doctor, and he replaces wine by beer and meat being the late war by excess acid by sausage and bacon. The English, acidic and heavy beverages, he man eats few vegetables. He feeds on heartening and strong wines.

Dr. Piessinger says that it is clear the subjects of the Latin peoples contrasts with the formidable digestive capacities of the northern nations.

Character is governed by feeding, according to the theory of Dr. Piessinger.

The various series of sentiment, good humor, hate, action, anger, impatience, duplicity, do not strike beginning memories of wine and the same chords on the instruments sweet, beer and sausage, steak and of subjects submitted to different climates.

IOWA MINISTER SUICIDE AFTER ROBBING BANK

Le Mars, Ia., Oct. 1 (AP)—For three hours the Rev. Alex Frolkey forgot he was an ordained minister of the Evangelical Church, forgot his position as respected citizen and landowner. He fastened a black mask across his face, shoved a pistol into his pocket and robbed the Sioux Center, Ia., bank. Then, with arrest near, he killed himself.

The robbery was the more inexplicable because Frolkey's wife is reputed to be one of the wealthiest women in this section of Iowa.

Just before Frolkey shot himself in a barn on the farm of his wife he gave $360 to P. Dickman, the farm tenant, with the explanation it was money he had obtained in the bank robbery.

License plates on his automobile turned suspicion to Frolkey. Members of a posse went to Frolkey's place and questioned him. His declaration of innocence, coupled with his high standing in the community, influenced them not to arrest him.

Frolkey then gave Dickman the money, confessed and shot himself with the same gun he had used earlier in the day in holding up the bank cashier.

The minister was 58 years old. At Western Union College here he starred at football. Upon graduation he was ordained, but he had not had a pastorate recently. His business activities included operation of radio station KWUC of Le Mars.

The place of yesterday's robbery is 20 miles from here. The robber forced the assistant cashier, one customer and two children into the bank vault. He snatched up all the currency in sight and fled in the Frolkey automobile.

WEDDING BELLS FAIL TO RING

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 1—Just like the movies, Miss Dorothy Voorhees, socially prominent, was ready to go to the church to become the bride of William Everett Parr, a young broker.

The bridesmaids had been named, the preacher selected and invitations issued for a reception to 150 guests.

And then:

The bride's father, John Henry Voorhees, descendant of the illustrious New Jersey Governor, Foster M. Voorhees, announced there would be no wedding. For the first time, Voorhees, pere, revealed why the wedding had been abruptly called off.

He stated it had been discovered Parr was previously wed, without any record of divorce. Parr himself has vanished, or at least could not be located today, in his accustomed quarters.

His finances, denying himself to callers, was reported on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

The domestic help problem is solved by having a kleptomic apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Yankee Flag Champs See London Sights

By FLOYD E. WILLIAMSON

Escort of American Flag Champions Going Around the World as Guests of the Hearst Newspapers

London, Oct. 1—The four youthful champions of the United States Flag Association's flag contest spent a busy day sightseeing in London.

They are particularly interested in the trip of Premier MacDonald to America to promote good will. Although only here a short time, the young Americans are convinced America and England have much in common and that friendship and accord will always dominate the relations between the two great nations.

The champions have seen Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey and other historical spots. They will visit Oxford today and then will be officially received by Ambassador Dawes.

The champions are Mary McGonigal of Troy, N. Y.; Alma Groves of Byronsville, Ga.; Merle Clark of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Robert Sullivan of Syracuse, N. Y.

Fire Ruins Historic Building at Yale

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 1 (AP)—Yale University lost a building today when the historic North Sheffield hall in Prospect st., housing the department of mathematics, was burned in a fire of undetermined origin. Three alarms were sounded for the blaze.

Hundreds of Yale students watched the fire. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Woman Found Dead and Husband Drunk

Mrs. Regina McDonald, 60, of Everett ave., Chelsea, was found dead in her apartment by Officer Cunningham.

Cunningham found the woman lying dead in bed and her husband, Alfred, under the influence of liquor. The husband said that he and his wife had been drinking and that his wife had become ill. Dr. Meyers, of Chestnut st., said the woman died from acute alcoholism.

How a Certain Lawyer

uses the foremost bank in New England

AS A LAW STUDENT he got tired of explaining exactly where the little college was from which he had graduated. And as a law student he once heard Mr. Justice Holmes say that with patience and industry a lawyer could rise to eminence in any branch of the profession.

He is today an eminent Corporation Lawyer in Boston. He recalls the day when he was admitted to the bar, and when he opened his small checking account with The First National Bank of Boston. "Now," he said, "at least I'll never have to explain where and what that bank is!"

HIS FIRST CASE took him to the bank—a trusteeship in bankruptcy. A bank officer gave him practical suggestions in liquidating the assets. He did the job well, and presently was appointed receiver for a large going concern.

Once more he sought the bank's business advice, borrowed money on receivers' certificates, made certain changes, and proved that the business could be profitably run. His reputation grew. So did his practice. When he was made trustee of a large estate, he at once employed the large and expert organization of the bank's Trust Department—and saved the estate money.

TODAY his manifold responsibilities and concerns touch all the 18 branches of service the bank offers. He never has undertaken to do for himself a thing the foremost bank in New England can do for him—which is why he has had time to practice law, and why he has gone so far on the path he chose.

His case is actual. It is parallel in principle to the case of every lawyer. No young lawyer who proposes to succeed can really afford to link himself with any bank less competent than the best in his community.

SEEK FUNDS TO START DRUG FARMS

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service

Washington, Oct. 1—Such favorable progress has been made in drafting plans for two federal narcotic farms to rehabilitate drug addicts the Congress will be asked in December, to appropriate the money to start construction.

Congress has already authorized the farms and a departmental committee, composed of Dr. Walter L. Treadway, of the public health service; Sanford Bates, superintendent of prisons, and Surgeon-General Ireland of the army, is working on the project.

Bids for sites of the two farms will be opened Saturday at the Treasury Department, under the direction of the government's supervising architect. After the offers are graded and classified, the narcotics committee will determine which ones to accept.

It has been agreed to locate one colony in the Southwest, in Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri or Texas, and the other in the Southeast, in Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia or Alabama. These areas are considered the most favorable from the standpoint of accessibility, climate and soil conditions.

Each farm will contain from 1500 to 1500 acres and will be located close to cities of between 25,000 to 40,000 population.

All drug addicts now in federal prisons will be transferred to the farms. The purpose will be not only to cure them of the narcotic habit but to relieve prison congestion and prevent recurrence of recent riots inspired by drug addicts. Approximately one-third of the present prison population are addicts or violators of the anti-drug laws.

Recognizing the necessity of segregating addicts from other prisoners, President Hoover has issued an executive order authorizing the transfer of drug victims to the army disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan. A trained staff of medical officers will supervise the rehabilitation work there until the narcotics farms are completed.

PICK NEW JURY FOR GASTONIA DEATH TRIAL

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 1 (INS)—Selection of a second jury for the trial of the seven Communists, union guards and former strikers in connection with the murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia began today.

As a result of announcement by the prosecution that it would not seek a first-degree verdict, all of the defendants were removed from the shadow of the death penalty. The state further surprised a crowded courtroom by releasing nine defendants, including three women, Amy Schecter, Vera Buch and Sophie Melvin, and dropping charges against several others awaiting separate trial on the lesser charge of assault.

The jury which will try Fred Erwin Beal, organizer of the National Textile Workers' Union, which conducted the strike against the Loray mill, and his six companions, will be drawn from a special venire.

In a public statement the International Labor Defense, Communist organization in charge of the financial and publicity aspects of the case, denounced the action of the prosecution in reducing the charge, asserting this puts the defense at a disadvantage in the selection of a jury. Counsel for the defense, however, hailed modification of the charge as a "great moral and legal victory."

BOSTON AMERICAN COOKING SCHOOL

Another Lesson Tomorrow

Martha Lee's School Is Mecca for Hundreds

The opening session of this year's Martha Lee Cooking School in the Imperial Ballroom of the Hotel Statler far surpassed anything that Martha Lee has ever accomplished in the past. Long before 1 o'clock, when the doors of the ballroom were opened, hundreds of women had gathered in an effort to secure the most desirable seats. Those coming first came in crowds and had grown large. Well, summer at a cooking school are as boring as golf, and the interest in cooking and the fall during the spring months doubled during a gala affair indeed.

Many of women were there to observe cooking from broad new angles, supplemented and from — especially being a mother. From many such, this proved a success. "Doesn't the stage look attractive? It is outlined that it makes the whole affair so delightful," was the remark heard as Martha Lee Cooking School was on its way.

ANSWER ALL QUESTIONS

Miss Lee and her assistant answered all questions pertaining to cooking and the preparation of food. Many of the questions were asked by women who had attended the Martha Lee Cooking School in other years, and who were interested in the new ideas and methods which Miss Lee is demonstrating this year. Many questions were asked by women who had never attended a cooking school before, and who were interested in learning the fundamentals of cooking.

MANY TASTY DISHES

That was a night well worth waiting for if every woman present was not acquainted with Martha Lee, Miss Cross and Miss Lee, for the intensely interesting and appealing manner in which they account for the popularity of Miss Lida B. Cross and for the love and affection with which Martha Lee is regarded, were held here in Boston.

Mrs. Cross immediately started in with the preparation of the afternoon's menu. Her first dish was a delicious fruit cocktail. Many bowls of this delicious fruit cocktail were passed around to the audience before the lecture and demonstration began. Many kinds of delicious fruits were used in the recipes prepared

PRAYERS HAIL CHURCH PEACE

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—A note in thanksgiving for the successful settlement of the Mexican church dispute was celebrated as the opening feature of today's procedure in the third day of the conference of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Director O'Hara of the Catholic Relief Life, Bureau spoke on "The American Council." Afternoon conferences were on "Formative Influences in Childhood."

Dr. E. J. Sisson of the Catholic University Department of Chemistry, in addresses and the "Most beautiful elements in American life are naturalism, pharisaism or hypocrisy and materialism. Also of the chief evils of naturalism, he said, is that it holds that anything as wide as humanity is much American. True patriotism, he explained, does not exclude love for others as a law of other nations.

IRKED AT LOSS OF BRIDGE HAND; KILLS HUBBY

Kansas City, Oct. 1 (AP).—The bridge game which caused the fatal shooting here of John G. Bennett by his wife was for but one-tenth of a cent a point and the particular hand which evoked the fatal quarrel made the Bennetts losers by 20 cents over a period of three hours of play.

Bennett was shot after an argument began when his wife shrilly termed him "a bum bridge player." Recriminatory words were followed by mounting anger, and finally Bennett, western sales manager for a New York perfume company, struck his wife. She rushed to her mother's bedroom and obtained a gun, with which she shot her husband twice.

Mrs. Bennett, a girl in appearance, although her husband was 26, was held without bond on a charge of first degree murder. Her attorneys indicated the defense will plead self-defense and temporary insanity.

LOSES $124,000 DIES IN LEAP

New York, Oct. 1 (AP).—A broker leaped to his death from a window on the 11th floor of the Hotel Shelton today after writing a note telling of stock market losses of $124,000 since last April.

The man was identified from papers in his pockets as W. J. Keyes, vice-president of the Charles Freshman Company, Inc. A note addressed to "dearest mother" said:

"Last April 1 I was worth $50,000. Today I am $74,000 in the red."

Another addressed to "dearest" said: "This is the only way out" and asked that his body be taken to his beloved Warwick, and that Helen Keyes, Warwick, N. Y., be notified.

The hotel management said Keyes had taken a room on September 26, registering for himself and wife, but she had not arrived.

A pedestrian saw the body falling on the Lexington ave. side of the hotel and notified the management.

Britain and U. S. Hold Key to World Peace

with science in the art of co-operation, and acting under the slogan that the more prosperous each interest is the more prosperous all become.

SEES DANGER TO U. S.

Political dealing and political alliances abroad are dangerous to our interests, would lead to political alliances. As the Kentucky mountaineer said of the League of Nations, "They have all the cards and we have all the chips."

Nothing yet done has done much to guarantee peace. Papers, pacts, palavers and propaganda have not guaranteed peace—not even with Geneva thrown in to boot.

MacDonald is coming to talk with President Hoover. This will be a fine thing if it leads away from any political alliances and toward business co-operation. Popular disapproval of wars, which the people of America and those of Great Britain can veto if they wish, is here already. No one needs convincing about peace.

Just after MacDonald has sailed, the British people and our people are being told that the question of naval parity is not important. We are being told that MacDonald has deeper questions to work out with us.

Let us hope so.

But let us hope these questions which the President and his visitor are to discuss are as to ways and means for economic and peace co-operation—and not POLITICAL alliances.

Statesmen in Europe are saying that the old foreign policy of England was to keep alliances this way and that on the continent; they are saying that Great Britain now is turning to America for political intrigue.

HOOVER AVOIDS TRICK

Few of us believe that. Certainly not President Hoover, no matter how tempted to have a finger in a pie, as Wilson was tempted. Certainly we are not to be moonwinked into putting aside—for we are the fattest prize in the world—our self-protection, as to our soil, our property, our commerce and our persons.

Whatever is done by MacDonald and Hoover should be done with popular approval. Its watchword should be "Co-operation and No Alliances."

Its inner practice should be carried on by business men and not by politicians.

Of this, no doubt, MacDonald also will be convinced.

Until we can talk on that basis, we may reduce our navies a little, but never to the point that we can reduce them after everything is brought out on the table.

Many of us are sure that not everything has been brought out on the table yet—even as to our own navy.

We are told by experts that we are far below parity.

We are told by experts that the strength of naval bases and merchant marine puts Great Britain in a position so superior that we cannot hope quickly to attain naval parity.

We have no agreement with the British as to freedom of the seas for our commerce. We need one—at once.

Above all, there is a widespread feeling throughout the country that the old-fashioned groups in our

KIDNAPERS GET RICH BOY, 5

Detroit, Oct. 1 (INS).—Hundreds of police and detectives today joined in a search for Jackie Thompson, 5, son of a millionaire real estate man, who was kidnaped from near his home late yesterday.

He was taken away in an automobile, screaming for his mother, almost before her eyes. Jackie and his brother, Henry, Jr., 7, were playing in front of their home when an auto drove up, according to the older boy.

There were two persons in the car, but he was unable to determine whether they were men or women, Henry related. They put Jackie in the machine and drove away, he said.

The child, meanwhile, was crying for help and his mother, confused, ran to the rear of the house before she became aware the outcry was from the front. She arrived at the front door just in time to see the automobile disappear.

The Thompsons live in an exclusive suburban section which is not thickly settled. Henry Thompson, the father, is president of the Thompson-Brown Real Estate Corporation.

Investigators said today there was little doubt that the boy was held for ransom. A kidnaping ring has operated here recently.

Per Capita Tax Stirs Clubwomen of State

If the rush of Christmas gift sending is lessened next Yuletide, it will be because clubwomen throughout the state have cooperated with the members of the Greater Boston Women's Auxiliary to the Railway Mail Association.

A resolution asking Bay State clubwomen not to send oversnuffed packages and odd sized greeting cards through the railway mail has been passed by this body.

The circularizing of the state's club presidents remains and this will soon be done, Mrs. W. J. Burke, president of the Railway Mail Auxiliary, told club presidents who attended a get-together tea given by their district director, Mrs. William J. McDonald.

"Did you ever wonder why that huge sized greeting card was torn when you received it?" she queried the clubwomen. "The size is the reason.

"The uniformity of greeting cards must be stressed and we mean to ask the clubwomen to help. Odd sizes and shapes can't be bundled properly."

Owing to a sudden bereavement in her family which made impossible Mrs. McDonald's presence, Mrs. Clarence W. Clark, president of the Presidents' Club, presided at the sixth district informal get-together at the Hotel Vendome.

All of the club presidents reported the activities of their club and, without exception, each reported as her greatest problem the recently imposed two dollar and a half per capita tax announced by executives of the General Federation for the Federation $2,000,000 foundation fund.

Close to 60 clubs were represented at the meeting and the delegate, each one, made mention that this tax either was or would be the "club's greatest problem."

The means of raising the per capita tax had stumped each club president, and futilely she sought ways and means of raising the amount.

The letter sent out by the Massachusetts General Federation director, Mrs. Arthur Devens Putter, announcing the tax, has only been received by the club heads. That it would serve to make busy the final meetings of the club year was clearly evidenced by the prevailing sentiment of the executives.

CANNOT "SEE" TAX

Mrs. Sara Van B. Schenck, reporting for the League of Women for Community Service, which devotes itself to welfare work among the colored people of the South End, said she couldn't visualize the per capita tax, since their organization was purely charitable.

Although only 18 months old, the New England Hotel Relief Association, reported by its president, Mrs. Herbert G. Summers, told of a $15,000 permanent fund, the interest of which was being used for needy hotel workers.

The belief that hotel employes were wealthy is wrong, she stated, since hotel men start when very young and at a low salary.

A valuable suggestion was made by Mrs. Hyman Freiman, president of the National Council of Jewish Women, Boston section, who told of a remembrance fund which her club sponsors.

ALL FOR CULTURE

People who wish to honor memory of a friend or relative contributed to this fund, she said, and in this way another means of raising money was exploited.

The New England Woman's Club was purely cultural, Mrs. Franklin E. Smith, new head, reported. The club was 64 years old, she said, and devoted its activities exclusively to cultural activities.

Mrs. Joseph Mahoney (Ranga Burgess) told the group that the New England Women's Press Association, of which she is president, was the oldest in New England and the third oldest in the country.

The reason for the Old Glory Club, Miss Marion Brazier, its founder and president stated, was to keep the public flag-minded and instruct about the proper hanging of the national emblem.

Membership in her club, she said, was represented in 42 of the 48 States. In addition to Mrs. Potter, Mrs. Azel A. Packard, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Miss Eugene Lawson, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Caesar Misch of Providence, R. I., Mrs. McDonald had just been welcomed into membership.

Mrs. Edgar Levenstein, reporting for the women's auxiliary of the Angell Memorial Hospital, told of the need of publicity for the organization and of extended quarters for the emergency clinic.

REED DEFENDS TARIFF BILL

Washington, Oct. 1—Defending the flexible tariff provisions, Senator Reed, Republican, said in the Senate today that critics of this section in the pending tariff bill had accepted in silence a provision that delegates, in his opinion, more power to the President than the flexible clause.

This power, Reed said, gave the President the right to place an embargo on foreign goods if in his opinion it would be in the public interest.

The provision which he said had been accepted without protest, but had been carried in the 15 tariff bills enacted by Congress since 1794, Reed has been dispended on by the Republican regulars to make the strongest appeal for retention of the flexible tariff favored by President Hoover. He spoke after Senator Wagner, Democrat, N. Y., had assailed the provisions as unconstitutional and appealed for a return to a tariff commission with only investigating powers and unhampered by the "morale-breaking executive tariff."

TO GET PRICE ON SEIZED SHIPS

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Evaluating 91 German ships seized during the war—among them the Leviathan and other vessels now the pride of the American merchant marine—is drawing to a close, Edwin B. Parker, war claims arbiter, is expected to announce a decision within two months.

The most recent report the arbiter has received estimated that, had the vessels been of British ownership, they would have been worth $120,000,000.

A rumor that the arbiter had rendered, or was ready to render, a decision several days ago, produced a sharp rise in stocks in Berlin.

Before the claimants, the Hamburg-American line, North German Lloyd and about 10 smaller companies, actually are paid by the United States, however, the arbiter must made tentative awards, as the war claims act made available only $100,000,000 for settlement of all claims for ships, patents and radio rights. There are about 5000 items left in the patent and radio classes.

One of the most difficult points involved is how much must be deducted from the value of the ships for "malicious damage" done to them shortly before the United States turned them to her purposes. Besides this, Congress has declared that the cost of maintaining the vessels for four years must be subtracted.

Should the total of tentative awards made by the arbiter for ships, patents and radio rights be more than $100,000,000, the individual awards would have to be prorated, unless Congress set aside additional funds.

PISTOL IS ONLY MURDER CLUE

Havre de Grace, Oct. 1 (AP)—Authorities were nothing more tangible than a discarded pistol to work from, are searching for the assassin of A. A. Morrison of New York, Pinkerton detective assigned to the Havre de Grace race tracks.

Morrison, according to several persons who were about 50 yards from the scene, had made a purchase at a drug store and started for his hotel. He was accosted by a man who said, "Now I've got you" and fired six shots into his body and fled.

Morrison died without regaining consciousness. A pistol with all cartridges discharged was found by police.

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Anger and fear greeted the faltering efforts of the first automobile. But the hands of AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE guided the steering wheel and controlled the throttle—the automobile drove on to glorious success.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

POPE ACCEPTS SOVIET TERMS

Rome, Oct. 1 (INS)—Pope Pius has ordered Signor Pacelli, papal nuncio at Berlin, to signify the Vatican's acceptance, with slight reservations, of a strict Soviet program for resumption of relations between Russia and the Catholic Church, it was reported today.

It is reported that to end persecution of Catholics in Soviet Russia, the Vatican has accepted conditions outlined by the Soviet government through its ambassador to Germany. It is understood the Moscow representative, on appeal to elude no recognition of the Catholic hierarchy.

In return the Soviets will permit the use of church, where congregations will be allowed to gather, with certain freedom.

British Continue Rhine Evacuation

Saarbruecken, Germany, Oct. 1—The British contingent of the international railway guard in the Saarbruecken district, numbering 120 men, left for home by way of Wiesbaden continuing British evacuation of the Rhineland under the settlement reached at The Hague in August.

Mrs. Gann's Gesture Only an Armistice

Washington, Oct. 1 (INS)—Vice-President Curtis comes to the harassed social arbiters of Washington, whereby he waived the social precedence he claims for his half-sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, in favor of Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, for the period of the MacDonald visit, marks only an armistice and not the end of the capital's social warfare.

That was made unmistakably plain today by the Curtiss-Gann partisans. The vice-president's concession was merely a gesture to relieve the aches and pains of wearied officialdom, confronted with an embarrassing situation.

The social war is expected to be resumed in full swing as soon as the MacDonalds leave Washington, and unless observers are sadly mistaken, it's going to wage right merrily throughout the coming winter.

It has not been forgotten that Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth once declined to attend a dinner where Mrs. Gann was to be seated as "the ranking lady." A good many of Mrs. Longworth's friends feel similarly, and it is understood they plan to "cut" all functions where hostesses accord Mrs. Gann the ranking that her brother insist upon her having.

But peace has been established for the duration of the MacDonald visit anyway, and that fact Secretary of State Stimson and besides were giving devout thanks today.

Taft Returns From Summer Vacation

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Chief Justice Taft, returning today after a vacation at his summer home at Murray Bay, Canada, was confronted with a crowded docket in the Supreme Court.

During his vacation, which benefited him greatly, the chief justice has been devoting much of his time to the examination of cases filed since the court adjourned in June. Before the Supreme Court meets on Monday he will make a searching review of the condition of business in courts throughout the country.

NOOSE LOOMS FOR 2 ROBBERS

Lamar, Col., Oct. 1 (AP)—The climax of a man hunt was in sight today as three of the gang which in May last year made a shambles of the First National Bank of Lamar, obtaining approximately a quarter-million dollars in a wild-shooting holdup, went to trial. Execution is virtually certain for two of them.

The three are George J. Absher, Howard L. Rosson and Ralph Fleagle. Fleagle alone has hope of escaping the gallows.

All have pleaded guilty to murder charges resulting from the killing of three bank officials and a physician as well as to charges of robbery and kidnaping. Fleagle's confession was responsible for apprehension of the other two and a prison sentence was promised him in return for the information.

A HOME PAPER

BOSTON, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1929

BOSTON DAY by DAY

By FRED TOYE

OF COURSE, you went to Quincy.

Interludes of red and green traffic lights on the high road to drama in its most modern garb. Interludes of quick change evening dress and hurried taxis and sips of food and beverage between multitudinous curtains, or, a typical Boston audience got nobly through the momentous five or six hours devoted to the unfolding of Mr. O'Neill's Noble Experiment.

I SAT DIRECTLY behind Senator McGrath. It was diverting to watch the iron gray hairs on the back of his head turn once in a while, snow white.

Two Boston ladies of a certain age did me the honor of asking who was who in the audience. Who were the members of the party? Gluhly I pointed out Congressman A. Piatt Andrew, Jr., Governor Fred Sampson, F. Lewis Young, Charlie Innes and John Pratt Whitman. Of course, no one knew who was in the jays. So I was safe enough. And they were happy.

"Isn't it artistic?" one of them asked me.

At the moment no few hats were standing on end.

IF THERE HAD been a few smokers or a house laugh now and then, I'd say our older folks are getting to have pretty strong appetites for dramatic stimulant. But there were more gray heads in the house than there were of youth. And largely feminine. But how deftly attuned. The audience had assembled in the cause of art, and the monthly club meetings will reek with the beautiful symbolism of it all. You know, we take our drama seriously when we go to these Quincy openings. Oh, my, yes.

WITCHCRAFT is thought of as a rank weed which grows only in isolated country regions. It comes as somewhat of a shock to learn that the cult of black magic flourishes in the heart of the city.

In this very day and age there are women in Boston practising mysterious arts which have come down to them in unbroken line from the priestesses of ancient Rome. The moon-goddess, called by the varying names of Diana, Astarte and Hecate, is their patroness. Spells and incantations are the tools in trade of our foremost Boston wizardresses. They call mighty and awesome powers into operation for modest ends. They will protect you from the evil eye, or bring disaster to your enemy for a dollar or two.

PRESENT-DAY WITCHES are not the skinny hags of tradition. Today they are both corpulent and opulent. They thrive on the fat and the fatheads of the land. Credulous women are their best customers. Their methods are simple. Their accomplishments appear sketchy to the skeptical, but they know how to impress their devotees.

Their supporters are found among residents of the fashionable quarters. Two women with daughters of an age are pie for the witches. Mothers are mostly ready zealots for their offsprings advantages.

One fond mother boasts of her girl's good job, or her fine-looking beau, or her clear complexion. The rival mother seethes with envy. She dashes off to the near-est practising "witch." She pawns a couple of chairs or the piano to pay the witch's fee and bring evil fortune upon the boastful one.

Mysterious happenings commence to worry the victim. Word is craftily circulated that she is a victim of the evil eye. She finds curious threads sewn into hems of her clothing. Wool snarls are found hid their way between the sheets of her bed. She becomes subject to "devils punches" when no one is near. She is startled by mysterious noises and feels icy hands upon her.

THE MOTHER lives a life of terror. She guards her chick with ceaseless devotion. Especially cautious is she that no personal object of the girl may fall into the hands of the enemy. A clipping of hair, a nail paring, an article of clothing would be enough for the witch to work her incantations with.

When a witchspell has begun to work, there is only one recourse. That is to call in the aid of a more powerful practitioner with corresponding outlay, of hard-earned dollars.

In every case of evil eye, there is a mass of corroborating evidence piled up to terrifying proportions. It reaches such a point that the victim sees sinister meaning in every trifling incident in her daily existence.

The Boston Evening American is a paper pledged to preserve peace among the citizens of this nation and promote the peace of the world.

JUDGE FAILS TO SLOW DOWN, PAYS $25 FINE

It Was One Judge to Another

Associate Judge Stevens, who was fined for auto violations.

ALSO REFUSES TO OBEY ORDER OF AN OFFICER

Is Second Time Lynn Justice Has Had to Tell It to the Other Judge

Found guilty of failing to slow down at an intersecting street and of refusing to obey orders of a traffic officer, Associate Justice Elias M. Stevens of Lynn District Court was today fined $25 by Judge Charles S. Sullivan of Charlestown District Court.

The Lynn judge was severely lectured from the bench by his Charlestown colleague.

At the very corner where the defendant was speeding a woman was instantly killed not long ago, Judge Sullivan declared. She was on her way to see her husband, a disabled veteran, and her death left three small children motherless and destitute.

"That is a place where any automobile driver should be careful," said Judge Sullivan.

SAYS HE WAS INSULTED

Traffic Officer Alfred E. Metcalf testified Judge Stevens passed Randolph, Mass., at 58 miles an hour. He said he ordered Stevens to pull to the curb, and Stevens refused to place his car as directed.

Judge Stevens declared he passed Bainbridge st. in a solid line of traffic and went only as fast as the other cars. He said he did not obey Officer Metcalf because the latter spoke to him in an insulting tone.

FINED ONCE BEFORE

Stevens said he was in a hurry to get into Boston to do an errand in a department store.

Judge Sullivan fined Stevens $15 for failing to slow down at Bainbridge st., and $10 for refusing to obey the officer. The defendant paid.

Judge Stevens was fined in Lynn court a year ago for speeding and passing a street car on the wrong side.

Mayor Bauer of Lynn on another occasion, saw the judge's car illegally parked in front of a restaurant where Stevens had gone to get headquarters and he lectured.

DAMON RUNYON Says

Loughran Paged Morris Chair
Finish One for Book
Sharkey Best in World
Tommy Ought to Rest

LOUGHRAN PAGED MORRIS CHAIR

THE spectacle of a gentleman pursuing in the midst of combat and cooing for a Morris chair that he might sit down and reflect surprises the clients at the Yankee Stadium no little the other evening. In fact, local Mr. Thomas Loughran, the gentleman in question, also asked for his pipe and carpet slippers, the clients couldn't have been more surprised.

Mr. Louis Magnolia, the referee, of whom Mr. Loughran made the request, was greatly astonished, and Mr. Magnolia is not easily astonished at requests made of him by the noble gladiators. Mr. Magnolia has been asked by them for the time of day, a couple of bucks, and the loan of a razor, but never before did a gentleman ask him for furniture.

Let me sit down for a moment until I see where I am, I said Mr. Loughran. Mr. Magnolia thought some authorities claim that Mr. Loughran said: Let me see where I am at. I doubt it Mr. Loughran said it. I am sure that Mr. Loughran wouldn't know an ear from a hole in himself as to say "at." Anyway he wasn't "at" anywhere.

FINISH WAS ONE FOR BOOK

FOLKS that saw it say it was one for the book, as we say at the office.

Mr. Loughran and Mr. Loughran and Mr. Loughran had many opportunities in getting ready for the fight, and he marked it on the boards for the terrible shellacking man in the third round, and down he went, until the referee reached five.

Then Mr. Loughran, who seemed strangely unlike a gentleman, in fact, at the moment, arose and wandered assembly to a neutral corner. Possibly he was suffering from amnesia. Anyway, this above is the singular request of Mr. Magnolia.

Some claim it was a reasonable request at that. They assert that anybody who ate the meat in the sandwich that Mr. Loughran did would feel like sitting down and thinking things over. Mr. Loughran's friends say of the management had provided him with a comfortable chair at the moment and he could have rested himself a few seconds on a spit and thought it all out, he would have eventually discovered where he was and continued the combat.

BEST HEAVYWEIGHT IN THE WORLD

LIKE the fellow who remarked after watching Babe Ruth for two years that he had come to the conclusion that Ruth was a better hitter, I'll have to give in on the terrible Sharkey man. The fellow can fight. He has a nasty personality, and is rough and tough, but he can fight. He is the best heavyweight right now. He has soundly trounced two of the most difficult men in the business to fight, Young Stribling and Tommy Loughran, and that makes him a good fighter to me. Maybe he is a great fighter.

A BARBER-MOUTH and a blow-hard, he is none the less a well-rounded good ringman. He has overcome the mistakes and was on his pugilistic make-up earlier in his career. He has the Tunney complex of hating the mob, and so in his fights for the mob, and probably always will be, but that makes him none the less a rocking good gladiator. Big, fast, and smooth, and ruthless.

He found out early in the battle that Mr. Loughran couldn't more than ruffle his thinning hair with his punches, a fact which made the terrible Sharkey man very terrible indeed as he went to work on Mr. Loughran. But the terrible Sharkey found the master boxer, Mr. Loughran, when they got to it, and then out-belted him by seven miles.

TOMMY SILENCED, WHICH HELPS

MY advice to Mr. Loughran would be to buy himself a nice rocking chair and retire to some sequestered spot where he can sit down to see if he can determine where he is. Also what he is. I would recommend a period of reflection of say a couple of years.

I suppose it will be said that this fight proves that a good [illegible] I deny that the result in other fights throws any light on the proposition whatever. The terrible Sharkey man may have proved that he is a good big man, but Mr. Loughran didn't qualify as a good little man, not that night, anyway.

But one good purpose was served by the battle. We don't have to listen to any more guff about what Mr. Loughran would do to all those big heavyweights in the heavyweight division. We know now that he wants to fight them from a chair, and the Marquis of Queensbury rules provide for no such contests.

9 PICKED FOR HARVARD ELEVEN

WHILE the last minute scramble for first team assignments goes merrily on among the Harvard halfbacks, the general attitude of the linemen is "we should worry."

When scrimmage opened today it became certain that at least 9 of the starting eleven have already been named, nine faces Haines, for Saturday. Of these nine, seven are linemen who have worked together since spring practice started two weeks ago. No last minute changes are expected to be made between now and game time.

The Crimson line this year is by far the best Harvard has ever developed and is probably one of the best that has ever been in the stadium. The seven choices are all sophomores and average about 190 pounds. They are all letter men with one or more years of varsity experience behind them.

WINGMEN PICKED

Dick O'Connell and Jim Douglas will be Harvard's choice for wingmen when the Crimson [illegible] same backs. O'Connell played three years of Harvard football after coming from Exeter, where he was a star. Douglas, a twin on the other end of the line, Jim Douglas is the former St. Georges School star and is rated very high as a end speedster. Sam Burns is also considered fine end material and may see a lot of the [illegible] reserves workout so far.

Capt. Jim Bausch and Foster Davis have the tackle berths on the Harvard [illegible] pounds and have plenty of fine knowledge. The two outstanding guards are Jim Jackson and Joan Tiarks, who teamed together to open great gaps in the Eleven in the Royal last year.

BROTHERS ON TEAM

Bill will rub elbows with his brother Ben, who finds [illegible] the guard position in a four cornered fight with Henry Gildea, Cunningham and Richards Gilden, however may take the Milton passers place at any time, as he has been showing great form in recent practices.

And so far as pacing the ball goes Cunningham and last year's freshman center is as good as any of them. Lack of experience is the only thing that will keep him out of the starting lineup.

Two halfback posts are still held vacant for the best bids. Elliot Putnam will call signals, and his backs will probably be Joe Potter, Ed Mays and Wallie Harper.

Another day, however, may see Tommy Galagan of Newton in the backfield. Art Huguley may hold a trump in his punting ability, and this gain one of the coveted assignments.

INDRISANO TO MEET SHUCCO

Matchmaker Bob McKinley of the Arena has matched Tony Shucco of the North End and Johnny Indrisano of East Boston, both shooters of real class with plenty of big league future ahead of them, for the main bout at the Arena Monday night.

There will be two eights under the wind[illegible] In one of these Willie Oster of New London the race guardsman, a husky [illegible] will meet Bobby Brown of Lowell, while in the other, Gene Bianco of the North End will face Jimmy Picardi of East Boston.

The two latter, rivals since their days in the amateurs, shape on paper as very closely matched. They are two fast and clever boys and are main bout performers in any club outside of Boston.

175 Pounders to Show at St. Joe's

The 175-pound class will be featured at the weekly amateur boxing tournament of the St. Joseph's T. A. B. to be held at Mechanics Building on Saturday night.

The big fellows do plenty of heavy punching and please the crowd. It is expected that at least six big boys will do battle in the 175-pound division. The class is open to all comers, and entries may be filed with William H. Cudd, 333 Washington st., room 311.

In addition to the 175-pound division, open competition will be held in the 112, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds classes.

VICTORY FOR LAWRENCE BOY MAY MEAN BOUT WITH SAMMY MANDELL

PREDICTING that Andy Callahan, 19 year old Lawrence lightweight, will score a knockout over [illegible] Bruce Flowers tomorrow night at the Boston Garden, thousands of Merrimack Valley fistic followers will invade the Bean town in hopes of making a cleanup with their new ring idol.

And a victory for Callahan in this bout with the hard hitting Flowers will just about clinch a meeting here with Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, for it was reported at the Boston Garden yesterday that negotiations for such a match are expected to be clinched within a few days.

GARDEN WANTS CHAMP

The Garden has been darkening for the appearance of the champion in this city for the past two months and indications now point as if all his fights here. The colored star has never [illegible] and always shown a willingness to swap punches with any of his opponents.

FLYAN FIGHTS

The best balanced preliminary card of the year supports the lightweight [illegible] with Arthur Flynn opposing Joe Zelinski of Winthrop in the 10 round semi-final.

There is certain to be a [illegible] ring contest in one [illegible] Arthur Flynn [illegible] Jimmy Zelinski [illegible] tomorrow night.

In an eight rounder Frankie [illegible] of Fall River meets Charlie Parker of the South End. Nolla recently won from Benny Kid Carter and Johnny Gonzales.

In [illegible] Bill [illegible] and Phil Pinatore [illegible] rivals will clash with a [illegible] affair. Lew Stein meets Joe [illegible] new Cuban recruit in [illegible] Jones, Jr., of East Boston and Gil Russo of the North End, rivals three amateur days, will meet in a four rounder. It will be their [illegible] bout each having won a decision in the opener. Fish Sarno of the North End meets Tony Magno a of the South End.

First Game at Home Gives Cubs Break

By JOE CASHMAN

ONE fact about the coming World Series that isn't being given the consideration it deserves is that the first game will be played in Chicago.

The fans are inclined to regard that as very insignificant as far as it having any effect on the outcome is concerned. They [illegible] the Cubs who believe themselves invincible at home, to lose most of their confidence and prove easy [illegible] the remaining games. That first game means to [illegible] Cubs nothing to do [illegible]

Joe Cashman

[illegible] ball club are about even everywhere [illegible] are almost invincible at home. [illegible] have been [illegible] years ago.

For example, on the first visit of the Eastern clubs of the National League to Chicago this season, the Cubs lost but one game. They're as tough in their own backyard as the ratchetiest who ever [illegible] in making the city famous.

CONSEQUENTLY, they would seem to stand a very good chance of winning the opening contest. And the team that scores first is almost sure to grab off the championship and all the gold and glory that goes with it, if the records of past series can be taken as a criterion.

In the twenty-five World Series which have been played the team that won the first game finished in front on seventeen occasions. In other words the odds are better than two to one that the team that wins the opener will capture the spoils.

Of course it may be true as American League [illegible] claim that the Cubs have never faced a team as strong as the A's and that despite their great home record, the National Leaguers will not win the first game of the series.

Still, the fact that the first game will be played in the Windy City doesn't boost the Mackmen stock a bit anyway you look at it.

On the other hand, the A's ought to be as good as in if they take the initial contest, for such a happening would be very likely to cause [illegible]

B. C. Lineup Stays Unchanged for Game With Maine

SHAKEUP IN EAGLE TEAM UNLIKELY

ALTHOUGH threats of a general shakeup were made to the Boston College eleven after their close call at the hands of C. I., it is not likely that there will be any new faces in the B. C. lineup which opposes Maine at Fenway Park next Saturday.

It is hard to see how Coach McKenney can inject any new players without hampering Boston College's chances of keeping in the victory column.

He put the best 11 men on the B. C. squad on the field against Catholic University. And therein lies the main difficulty that McKenney will encounter this year.

Boston College has about 15 outstanding players on a squad of close to 55. And they know who they are. These boys have to be kept on the first team or the B. C. machine would look as green as any Irishman a tie on St. Patrick's day.

B. C. RESERVES POOR

McKenney seems to have sensed this fact. During the practice work, before the first game, none of his first-stringers were overworking themselves.

They weren't being pushed for their positions. And they probably won't be pushed for the remainder of the season. For the reserves on the Heights squad are the poorest in years. They try hard. But they haven't got the class.

It's a rather delicate situation to have a certain group playing football who are in dead earnest and using that best will ground by using like champions if they were on a little crossbow in the way of competition for their jobs.

That's why McKenney remained quiet and said little, but even opening up and telling his boys a few things. He's not the kind of a coach who scares easily. It will be interesting to see if this scheme works out.

CHANGES NOT LIKELY

And at that he may use a couple of the starters in the first-team places against Maine. It may be a costly experiment, but something has to be done. It would be better to drop a game to Maine in order to get the club mad than to lose the important contests which are just around the bend, Villanova, Duke and Fordham.

Another reason why changes in the B. C. lineup are not likely is the fact that Saturday's faults were committed collectively and not individually. Every player on the B. C. team did something or other that was worthy of tribute. And individual faults were hard to notice.

If the eleven that started against C. U., with Pete Herman back in tackle in place of Jack Young, is put through rugged team work during the coming week the Eagles will have little trouble walloping Maine.

The B. C. team needs plenty of drilling to get it functioning. Charging, budding and timing were the main errors against C. U. These are fundamentals that can be nearly perfected within the time left before the Maine game.

The gang from the land of large potatoes is fresh from a victory over Rhode Island and is intent on trimming B. C. this week-end. Coach Fred Brice has a team of eight veterans. They're all big and, it is rumored, a more serious proposition than Catholic University.

Golf's Greatest Teacher

Assuming that you have accomplished a correct handling of your arms in the back swing—elbows pushed slightly toward each other in the address, and elbows pointing to the ground at the top of the back swing—here is how the arms act in the forward swing. From the takeoff toward the ball, the arms and hands will be pulled back. That is, you do not begin to start them forward, or swing, at all directly from the top. First, your body shifts over toward the left. This readjusting of your weight starts, at the same time, a shoulder rotation toward the ball. These two actions, going together, start the return of the club, so that by the time your weight has shifted and your shoulders have begun to rotate, your club will be, say, one-third the way down. Here your arms are moving directly downward, toward the ground—down toward your waist line, I'll say. Now your body and your shoulders are out of the way, which has been necessary so now you "pick the club up" so to speak, with hands and arms and whip it through the ball. Practice that initial action from the top. Practice it until you are smooth and easy with it.

HOLY CROSS FOOTBALL TEAM READY FOR SEASON

Members of the Holy Cross football team decked out in their new uniforms—in a style that's popular this fall. Holy Cross began the season auspiciously with a neat victory over St. John's, to the tune of 19 to 0, at Worcester. Left to right: Ulzerini, right end; Pine, right tackle; Himmelhan rg, right guard; Farrell, center; Gannon, left guard; Fitzgerald, left tackle; Kucharski, left end. Standing: Baker, right halfback; Capt. Clancy, fullback; O'Connell, left halfback, and Byrne, quarterback. (Associated Press photo.)

MR. BOSTON
BY JACK CONWAY

"WHERE are the Irish fighters nowadays?" asked Freddy Lane, who is once more back in the Sporting Rialto.

"Drop in at the Boston Garden tomorrow night and you'll get a peek at one of the best of the Celtic pugilistic flingers," answered Mr. Boston. "Of course I know that the Irish are not as numerous in the ring as they were 20 years ago, but there are still enough of them on the job to furnish some red hot action.

"Callahan is the best battler of Irish extraction to pop up in the front in recent years. This 19-year old kid has proved a sensation. His aggressiveness and punching power have enabled him to win 37 fights in a row.

"Callahan was in the Jack Sharkey camp at Miami, Fla. He made the Visiting firemen sit up and take notice when he stiffened some of Sharkey's heavyweight sparring partners.

Jack Conway

"Make no mistake. The kid can fight. He will receive his big test when he tackles Bruce Flowers tomorrow night. Flowers is a seasoned campaigner and one of the best lightweights in the world. He will probably go to the post a favorite, but will have to display remarkable form to halt the rush of the Lawrence Irishman.

"Callahan is the most talked of fighter to come out of Lawrence since Young Kloby was tipping over the opposition. As Arthur Flynn of Lawrence is carded to mingle with Joe Zelinsky of Wisconsin on the same card, Merrimac Valley fans will turn out in large numbers for the Garden show."

A YOUTHFUL football correspondent dashed up to Mr. Boston.

"Where's Nick Flatley?" he demanded as he displayed much excitement. "I have a GREAT story."

"Maybe it has something to do with the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," drawled Mr. Boston.

"Don't kid me," pressed the young reporter. "We've a guy at our college who is a greater back than Eddie Mahan was when it his best."

"Guess the fight managers are not the only ones who are daffy about the greater than ever stuff," piped Mr. Boston, as the young reporter went on his way. "It is this kind of enthusiasm which has packed the college stadiums when dear old Alma Mater has battled Whoosit College at the regular price of $4 a copy for seats. Nevertheless the enthusiasm of Young America, as this spirit may sometimes be called, is a wonderful thing when it is directed in the right channels. Many a youth has been guided into the right path through his day get affiliated with real work and accomplish big things.

"THE boys are already around trying to line up tickets for the choice football games. Were the Sharkey-Loughran bout out of the way, football fans are seeking tickets for the Harvard Army and other attractive football bookings.

"EVEN Bob Quinn owner of the Red Sox, cannot get any extra World Series tickets. He called Judge Landis on the long distance telephone at Chicago and was informed that there was a complete sellout at Chicago and Philadelphia.

"JUDGE Landis always contended that all records for attendance at sporting events would be shattered if all who wished to could take in the opening clash of a World Series. Baseball is still a rather lively corpse, according to Landis.

"JOE CASHMAN tells me the Cubs will win the series. Nick Flatley will name his choice soon. Anyhow it looks as though the series will furnish plenty of good baseball, which is what the fans desire."

Bowdoin Adopts New Uniforms

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 1—When the Bowdoin team trots on the Mass. Aggie field Saturday it will appear slightly different than it has for several years for the simple reason that the conventional black and white jerseys have been replaced by black and gray jerseys.

H. C. CAPTAIN OUT OF LINEUP

Worcester Oct. 1—Holy Cross came through the St. John's College game much better physical condition than was thought Saturday.

While the physical condition is good the playing condition will need considerable improvement and on the angle of the game Head Coach O'Donnell and his assistants started in this afternoon in a long talk during which the errors were gone over as well as mention made of the bright spots.

Capt. Stuart Clancy, who was taken from the field Saturday pierces, shows a sore muscle above the elbow. How long he will be missing from the squad and when expects on recuperation.

Walter Kiarman too, was lucky and the pictures indicate that his trouble is slight. Clancy was out today, his arm in a sling and in civilian clothes. O'Donnell isn't disturbed much about the next brand of tackling that the team showed against St. John's. The Crusaders coaching staff has new departments to build up during the week. They are not discouraged but will go right to mending the weak spots.

The squad will certainly come for one or two sessions at tackling during the week and the defense and forward passing attack will be worked on.

Some of the bright spots coming out of Saturday's game indicate that Henry Bauer, Southboro boy will be heard from.

Punts, Passes and Fumbles

COACH HORWEEN will stress fundamentals this week, instead of making any extensive preparations for Bates. There is no question but that the Lewiston team is in for a real old fashioned trimming next Saturday in the Stadium, but at the same time, there will be little or no opportunity to get a line on the Crimson.

As "the grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard" it is not to be marveled at that Coach Horween is alone in his state of mind. Harvard has not the making of the greatest team since the war. Yale, Dartmouth and West Point are all frank to admit that they have real causes to fear the Crimson. Coach Horween is at a loss, as to the reason. It will come out.

Sonny Marino, the diminutive Boston University quarterback made a wonderful impression at West Point. The Cadets and Mules do not mean a thing in Marino's life and when he smacked those Kaydet backs they stayed smacked. It takes the high calibre of tacklers to bring down Cagle as a Murrell as Marino did on Saturday.

Harry Robertson, the former Somerville high and Syracuse star, is sitting on top of the world at Oglethorpe.

Hal Andres, who prepped at Newton high, is one of the most improved centers in the East. Not that Andres did not fill the bill last season at Dartmouth, but he is far head of the form he displayed a year ago. Andres is a real contender for All-America honors.

Mayes McLane, the ex-Haskell Indian and University of Iowa star fullback, is now located on the Pacific Coast and playing with the Olympia club. McLane was one of the game's highest scorers during his last year at Haskell under Dick Hanley, the present North western coach. After leaving Haskell, McLane wanted to enter Dartmouth but the athletic committee refused him its sanction to play football and he went to Iowa.

Phil McGraw Quits Ring With $100,000

New York, Oct. 1 (AP) Phil McGraw, the Detroit florist, has retired from the ring. The veteran lightweight announced he was through last night after he had taken a terrific beating from Jack (Kid) Berg of England, in a 10-round bout.

McGraw said he has amassed a fortune of more than $100,000 in the ring.

Mack Had Little Hope of Winning This Year

PHILADELPHIA Oct 1 (AP)—Connie Mack, who has managed the Athletics [illegible] years, revealed today that he [illegible] pennant winner since 1923.

"In that year" he said "we began to branch out. We made changes and in 1922 we got out of the cellar and finished in seventh place.

"In the spring of 1923 I thought I had the makings of another pennant winner. We [illegible] early and stayed up around first place until July 4 when the Yanks pulled ahead of us. We finished sixth.

"The pitcher who wrecked us was Jack Quinn, then with Boston. We needed a punch in the batting order, so our scouts dug up Al Simmons, then with Milwaukee, and I went to Salt Lake City and watched Paul Strand for a week.

"Then came the spring of 1924. Simmons began to hit, but Strand was unable to help us. So I [illegible] traded Strand for Bill Lamar and put him in left field and Simmons in center. We played good ball the last half of the season, but all was in vain.

CONTENDER IN 1925.

"Our team was a contender from the beginning in 1925 and then a series of mishaps overtook us. Haines broke his keer and was out for the season.

"Lamar was out. Hale [illegible] and there were other [illegible] but a makeshift team played as well as the regulars and we stayed in that place until late in August when we [illegible] in three straight and that ruined us. Washington was the team we had to beat that year, and we couldn't do it.

"In 1-27 Ty Cobb joined us, but the Yankees proceeded to wreck us in the opening series, sweeping three games and tieing one. We finished second that year.

ON TOP FOR A DAY.

"Last year's team made a brilliant record. After a poor start and our inability to beat the Yankees, we finally made up for it against the other clubs and chopped down the Yanks lead of 13 games and went into first place for a day.

"From the way the team played in spring training this year I thought there was a possibility of heading the second division. However, we got off on the right foot again, jumped into first place over the Cubs in May and have been there ever since.

But I never felt the champion was actually clinched until we won two games from the Yanks on Oct. 2. Then I knew it was all over.

World Series Tickets Put in Mail Today

Philadelphia, Oct. 1 (AP)—Official notification of their reservations for World Series tickets in the games in Philadelphia were in the mails today for 8,000 applicants. The second batch of orders is to be mailed tonight and the final batch on Wednesday.

Approximately 27,000 of the 50,000 seats in Shibe Park will be taken care of by the letter.

We have done everything in our power to keep the tickets from falling into the hands of speculators," Schroeder said.

Schroeder said he had handled more than 100,000 applications since September 16. Approximately 2300 bleacher seats, at $1 each, will be placed on sale at the ball park each day of the series.

Fight Fans Will Honor Sharkey

Hub boxing fans will honor the new American heavyweight champion at the Boston Garden tonight when "Jack Sharkey Night" will be held in conjunction with the light-weight bout between Andy Callahan and Bruce Flowers.

The new champion, accompanied by Mrs. Sharkey and a party of friends, will occupy a section close to the ring at tomorrow night's show. Yesterday Sharkey visited Eddie Mack and the directors of the Boston Garden that he will be on hand.

Auburn Brothers

Howard Long football captain at Auburn, and his brother, Grady probably will be the regular guards this year. Another brother, in 1926, was a regular guard on the Auburn eleven.

$312 GIVEN CAMPOLO FOR BOUT

NEW York, Sept. 30 (AP)—The same type of manipulation that finally Max Schmeling from American rings blew up today [illegible] start frame of Victor Campolo of the Argen-

Campolo's arguments with his Argentine manager, Gustave Lenoir are almost as many sided as Schmeling's controversies with his native and American pilots, as well as various boxing commissions and promoters. The Argentine claims that from the purse of $9415 paid to manager for Campolo's losing stand against Phil Scott only $312 was officially him "Expenses" never incurred are up the remainder, he [illegible]

More serious are Campolo's charges that on the afternoon of the Scott match, an unlit gas jet was ignited in his room, causing him severe nausea and that only [illegible] Felipe, and Leneve had [illegible] in the room during the fight. Campolo says, Leneve kept shouting, "Don't fight [illegible] take it easy" when Scott was [illegible] battered in the first and second rounds.

Like Schmeling, Campolo now refuses to box under Leneve's management again, although Humberto J. Lugary, local promoter, has a contract signed by the manager calling for four more fights. Campolo claims that $3000 of his money was [illegible] by Leneve as a forfeit when he refused to consent.

The contract, posted a few months ago with the New York commission, has two years to run. Under the original [illegible] in Argentina, however, the [illegible] is free from his manager. Campolo has applied for passage to the Argentine on a steamer sailing Friday.

The domestic help problem is solved by the Boston Herald's classified department and you'll find over advertised daily in the Boston Herald columns.

Quality is always the last word in style

Say what you like about style in a man's shoe, it just can't be there unless there's quality, too. For a shoe's always pounding the pavement—and the style in a poor shoe jounces out as quickly as the air in a blown tire.

So if quality's the last word in style, Coward's your first word in shoes. Their good looks aren't just put on the surface, they're built into the structure. And they're fitted so accurately, that wear evenly distributes itself over the shoe. Coward shoes become months and months old, but they never grow shabby.

On Tuesday Ann Marie sent the painted organdies to Janet by parcel post.

On Thursday she had a check for $10 from Janet along with a little note written on heavy cream-colored paper.

"The organdy is so beautiful that I just hate to cut it up into dresses," she had written. "Two of my best friends saw it yesterday and they are going to ask you to paint some for them, if you have time You'll meet them on Saturday. Be sure to wear the pink one. I'm sure I can get customers here."

People Who Try to Be Kings

By LUCY LOWELL

A LITTLE verse I think long people like to see other people happy and well and pros

In a lovely little poem of child hood Stevenson tells of a child who launches on the river little boats which slip away from him. It occurs to him that even though the boat have left him they still are.

On goes the river

And out past the mill

Away down the vale,

Away down the hill

Away down the river,

A hundred miles or more,

Other little children

Shall bring me boats ashore

It seems to me that a great deal of the work and planning and accomplishment of the people we know—the ordinary folk we meet day in, day out—is carried on with something of this devotion to humanity at large in mind.

However circumscribed these lives may be by duties, the necessity of earning a living, carrying on daily affairs, it is my belief that nearly all of them feel a sense of contact with life beyond their own narrow spheres of family friend-

NEW LOWS SET IN WALL ST. SELLING

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Small losses in public utilities and high priced industrial specialties [illegible] urged resumption of the liquidating movement in today's stock market.

Stock after stock crashed to new lows on the current decline which has been under way, with few exceptions, for about three weeks. losses of 3 points or more being quite common, with at least a score issues down 10 to nearly 40 points.

Hopes that the small volume of trading yesterday indicated the drying up of the selling movement were shattered when large blocks of the popular speculative favorites were pressed for sale, some of them "at the market" by distressed margin traders.

Wall st. heard reports that London speculators were ready to step here to raise funds in order to meet settlements in connection with the Hatry collapse on Oct. tober 24.

A Dog's Tail Can't Be Cut Off Twice

Many Stocks Operated on Already, Prices Show; Business Good

By B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—You can't cut a dog's tail off twice. That was what Henry Clews, veteran member of the New York Stock Exchange, used to proclaim to his customers when they were disposed to become panicky because stocks had declined badly.

Now, the truth is, although not generally recognized, that a good many stocks have already had their tails cut off this year. Would it astonish you to learn that not a few issues have dropped 50 per cent from their high point of the year?

B. C. Forbes

Is it not obvious that stocks which have already fallen from their heights have that much less room to fall farther?

It may be well to emphasize the extent of the reaction already sustained because Wall Street was exhibiting distinct symptoms of nervousness when on Friday representative industrial stocks dropped an average of 12 points. In 10 days the drop in these same stocks reached 35 points.

That there already has been drastic liquidation and readjustment in many high priced as well as low priced issues is brought out in the following tables, tables which are presented here and now to show that a good many tails have already been rather severely shortened.

It will be logical for many stocks to stage a rally before they have fallen very much farther. The bottom of this present reaction should, according to accepted Wall Street reckoning, be reached very shortly. Then should set in a rally which may or may not develop the proportion of an impressive recovery.

After that, perhaps around the end of the year, bargains galore may be available.

The unfavorable state of the money market, commented on in recent columns, continues unabated.

Trade holds up gratifyingly. Railway traffic maintains record-breaking volume; bank clearings continue very high; retail trade, although unevenly distributed throughout the country, shows a total ahead of last year; the general price level has declined extremely little; foreign trade is active; employment is gratifyingly large, and wages are still mildly on the uptrend.

If the stock market does not throw a monkeywrench into it, business prosperity promises to last through the year.

INVESTMENT TRUSTS PLAN MERGER

A plan for merging the interests of stockholders in Financial Investing Co. of New York, Ltd., and Domestic and Overseas Investing Co., Ltd., is being submitted to the stockholders of these two general investment trusts. This merger of interests will be effected through the organization of Seaboard Continental Corporation and an exchange for the stocks of the other two companies.

Seaboard Continental, a Delaware Corporation, will have an authorized capital of 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $20, and 10,000,000 shares of common stock, no par value, giving the new company an authorized capital in excess of $100,000,000. Fiscal Bond and Share Corporation is acting as organization managers. All of the constituent companies to the plan are under management of United States Fiscal Corporation.

BASIS OF EXCHANGE

The initial issue of Seaboard Continental will be 1,000,000 units consisting of one share of 6 per cent cumulative convertible series A preferred stock and one share of common stock. The basis of exchange to Financial Investing shareholders will be one unit and one and one-half additional shares of common stock in Seaboard Continental for each share of Financial Investing common stock.

Each two shares of Domestic and Overseas preference stock may be exchanged for one unit and one additional share of Seaboard Continental common stock. Each 25 shares of Domestic and Overseas deferred stock is offered 15 shares of Seaboard Continental common in exchange.

Financial Investing and Domestic and Overseas preference stockholders are being given the privilege of subscribing to additional shares of Seaboard Continental common stock at 35 each in number equal to the number of their shares exchanged. The expiration date on the exchange and subscription rights is the close of business November 1, 1929.

The Series A preferred stock will be entitled to receive cumulative dividends at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable quarterly beginning December 15, 1929, in cash or in stock at the holder's option. This series is callable on December 15, 1931, or on any dividend date thereafter, upon 60 days' written notice at $22 a share and is convertible, share for share, into common stock at any time prior to the date fixed for redemption. The initial policy on the common stock will be to pay dividends in cash or in common stock, or partly in both, on the yearly basis of 10 per cent in stock or 30 cents a share in cash.

TREND OF TODAY

In discussing the proposed plan Jarvis W. Rockwell, Jr., president of Fiscal Bond and Share Corporation, said, "The trend today is toward larger investing companies. Those with ample resources have open to them opportunities for profit not available to smaller institutions. Seaboard Continental Corporation will assume its place among the larger investing companies of America.

"Illustrative of its operations, a contract has already been entered into on its behalf for the acquisition of a major interest in another successful investment trust upon terms which already show a substantial profit and on which a further profit should be realized in the future. Several other transactions are in an advanced state of negotiation.

"In all essential particulars the investment policies of Financial Investing Co. of New York, Ltd., and Domestic and Overseas Investing Co., Ltd., are alike. The same guiding principles will control the operations of the new corporation. The proposed plan is simply a merger of interests, in preparation of larger opportunities and a continuation of the management policies which have been administered by United States Fiscal Corporation."

Receivership for Cuba Cane Ordered

Receivership for Cuba Cane Corp., with assets in excess of $110,000,000, has been ordered by Judge Thacher in United States District Court. Charles Hayden, chairman of the board and of the reorganization committee, said the reorganization plan will be presented to the court and that the committee hopes it will be approved. Committee believes receivership will benefit the company and security holders who have deposited under the plan.

Stock Exchange in Boston Is Active

September was an active month on the Boston Stock Exchange. Total trading amounted to 1,805,811 shares, compared with 1,466,253 shares in 1928, 1,370,817 shares in 1927 and 835,416 shares in 1926. The expanding volume of trading, of course, reflects the growing interest in local securities. Investment trust shares contributed by far the greater portion of the month's trading. Such issues as American Founders, United Founders, Continental Shares, Public Utility Holding, International Carriers and United States & Overseas as well as Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates and Massachusetts Utilities Associates have been among the leaders.

$1,000,000 Order Helps N. H. Mills

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 1—New Hampshire Mills, makers of woolen sweaters and bathing suits, have moved from Langdon Mill of Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. to Amoskeag No. 12 Weave Shed, with three times the floor space. Pres. C. E. Dotter declares increased orders, including one $1,000,000 order for bathing suits from a New York concern, made the change necessary. New machinery will be purchased, and working force increased within a few months from 100 to 250 employes.

Loring Textile Makes New Offer

United Merchants & Manufacturers, Inc., the textile organization headed by Homer Loring, is offering for each share of Cohn-Hall-Marx Co. stock one share of $12 par 6 per cent class A stock (at four newly created) and one share of its common stock. This offer is good until close of business on Oct. 30, 1929.

Lothrop Assumes His New Duties

Francis B. Lothrop, who was recently elected assistant to the president of the New England Trust Co., assumed his duties today. J. Elliott Mitchell has been appointed an assistant trust officer.

DECLINES Monday were on reduced transactions, and brokers said there was very little distress selling.

VICE PRESIDENT AND A DIRECTOR OF THIS CORPORATION

95 MILK STREET, BOSTON

OCTOBER 1, 1929

AT THE DIAL

By BERT BROUKHANS
Radio Editor

THERE is a double increasing interest in regular radio broadcasting from the Boston area this fall. The new NBC hookup, a subsidiary of the Radio Corporation of America, with headquarters in Boston, New York and Philadelphia and many cities similarly centralized in other sections, will soon be running. Rudolph L. Duncan, assistant director of the Radio Institute of America, president of the new organization and Lieut. Col. Thad Hood, president of the Radio Corporation of America, chairman of the board of the Eastern Division Radio Institute of Boston, founded in 1922, will make it possible for local amateurs to hear more extensive regular events without having to go to New York but also makes available more prominent broadcasting stars.

The championship bout between Jackie Field, and Vince Dundee, which is the main event in Jack Dempsey's first boxing show in Chicago tomorrow night, will be broadcast through WEEI at 11 o'clock. The contest between Field, welterweight champion, and Dundee, contender for the crown, will be a 10-round affair. Graham McNamee veteran fight announcer will be at the ringside phone and Dempsey will talk to the radio audience at intervals during the broadcast.

Jack Dempsey, the champion of champions, will be heard in person from Chicago tomorrow night, when he broadcasts his fight with Vince Dundee, the Providence welterweight champion, for the championship of Quebec and for England championship of Canada, but it was Georges Carpentier, Gene Tunney and Wolfe fell on the field of battle. The significant episode in history will be presented in WEEI tonight, Second and Sketch through WEEI.

A new radio program combining musical selections with a continuous dialogue story in dramatic form will be launched tonight through WNAC and the Columbia network sponsored by the makers of the Black-lone cigar. It will relate the adventures of Lieut. Blackstone, a tobacco planter, and his old friend, George, who has been places and seen things. George has a pretty daughter and that is where the romance enters the story. This new broadcast marks a distinct more step away from the surfeit of straight orchestra music and vocal instrumental specialties that comprise most of the radio offerings of the present season.

BEGINNING tonight with a comprehensive musical program of the world's best music, known Around the World with Libby, concerts will be heard over the Columbia network and WNAC at 8:30 o'clock. The Max Muller Orchestra has been engaged to have a change in setting, according to the statement of Libby, McNeil & Libby, the sponsors of the broadcasts. The music and general household chat will become more homelike each Wednesday morning instead of Friday.

The further adventures of Jimmy Otis, reporter, and Dorothy Brent, pretty nurse, will be told in tonight's Johnson and Johnson program through WBZ. While on a visit to Coney Island they uncovered a smuggling plot. Fast motor cars, an airplane, a mysterious speed boat and a strange cutter figure in the further and ashore chase of the smugglers who operate a fortune in rum and diamonds. The musical background of the sketch is furnished by Gene Rodemich and his orchestra.

PRINCIPAL events leading up to the world's full acknowledgment of Richard Wagner as one of the great composers of all time will be authentically presented in a unique broadcast during this evening. Every Hour, The dramatization opens in Paris with the composer's arrival there with the hope of having his works produced with the magnificence of the Grand Opera. Not until 1850 however was Tannhauser put on. Then the subsequent production of Lohengrin, Tristan and Isolde, Die Meistersinger, Rienzi, Der Fliegende Holländer and Parsifal followed in quick succession. The broadcast will conclude with a stirring presentation of the Ride of Valkyrie and the Immolation of Brunhilde.

Paul Dumont, actor-producer and former minstrel star, will make his debut as end man with the Dutch Masters Minstrels this evening, occupying the vacancy caused by the resignation of Percy Hemus. Dumont will be assisted in his initial performance by Al Bernard, fellow end man; Carson Robison, novelty vocalist; Steele Jamison and Emil Cote, soloists; Billy Hillpot, saxophonist, and Harold Stanford's orchestra.

DELLA BAKER, soprano will be guest artist with the Fada Orchestra tonight during its program from WNAC and associated stations of the Columbia system. Miss Baker a Daughter of the American Revolution, has appeared with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra at important festivals and at many concerts.

MYSTERY MAID STILL DRAWS CROWDS

Still attracting crowds wherever she appears, the Majestic Mystery Maid in two appearances broke her own records for attendance and added to the excitement created.

Arriving at the radio studio of George O. Lloyd, Inc., at 47 High st., Boston, just before noon she was met by Mr. Lloyd and shown around the store. While demonstrating one of the Popularity Contest prize award sets she was surrounded by a curious throng, including many contestants who took the opportunity to call on her for details concerning the contest.

Her next appearance was at the Boston Automatic Machine Cooking School in the Hotel Statler where the capacity-taxing crowd gave her an ovation. She was told about the contest and the three Majestic radio sets which the Majestic Cooking School is giving free to women attending the school sessions.

To be eligible for one of these three sets it is not necessary to be an entrant in the Miss Majestic Popularity Contest. Each person entering the Statler ballroom for the Majestic Cooking School will be given a ballot and a list of contestants' Filling in the ballot and signing it is the only requirement. The ballots are deposited in boxes at the entrance to the ballroom. Before the end of the session they will all be assembled on the stage where the winners of the sets will be announced.

The ballots cast, of course, will go to swell the totals of lucky contestants, one of whom is to be given the title of "Miss Majestic" and with it a prize consisting of a round trip to Bermuda for herself and a companion, with all expenses paid; also a model 181 Majestic radio and phonograph combination, and a complete sports ensemble from the Barbara Stone shops of Boston.

Second prize winner is to become the owner of a model 82 Majestic radio and also to get a complete sports ensemble. The third-place winner is to receive a model 91 Majestic radio and an Elgin, gem-studded, white-gold wrist watch. Seven other valuable prizes are to be awarded.

In speaking to the cooking class, the "Mystery Maid" said, "Please do not think this is a beauty contest or a beauty hunt. We do not want to find the most beautiful girl in Boston, or the most clever. We are seeking the most popular — the one who, by the votes cast for her, is shown to be Boston's favorite. And she may be pretty or she may be forty, or anywhere in between. So long as she receives the votes than anyone else, she will be "Miss Majestic."

To assure the absolute equality for all contestants and to make certain of complete accuracy in collecting, counting and tabulating votes, the contest managers have engaged Charleston, Wyllie & Co., certified public accountants of Boston, to assume full charge of all ballots and all details of accounting of votes.

Vote coupons may be obtained by visiting the Atlas Theatre, or the B. F. Keith Theater, where every ticket purchased is given a 500-vote coupon which may be cast in ballot boxes in the theater lobbies for any of the contestants. Other coupons worth 50 votes each will be printed in the Boston Evening American. Still other coupons worth as much as 10,000 or 15,000 votes each, are being distributed by Majestic dealers who are cooperating in the campaign. In all, there are eight methods of obtaining votes which may be credited to any contestant.

Nearly all girls and women are already in the race, but it is by no means too late to enter. No contestant is so far ahead that she cannot be overtaken. "Miss Majestic" may be one of the first whose names were entered, or she may be someone who has not yet been nominated.

Nomination coupons may be secured at Miss Majestic Popularity Contest Headquarters, 47 High st., Boston, opposite the Majestic Theater, or from any Majestic dealer co-operating in the contest.

Those already in the contest and those who will enter today and today will be especially interested in the Miss Majestic dinner which Grigsby-Grunow Co., makers of Majestic radio, is giving tonight in all contestants. At this dinner officials of the company will tell about the contests held in other cities and will give instructions how to pile up votes in this one. "The Mystery Maid" will also be present and will have some interesting information for the contestants.

During the remainder of the week the "Mystery Maid" will visit the sessions of the Automatic Cooking School, and will also be seen in the stores of various co-operating dealers, including Lloyd's at No. 47 High st., where she created such a sensation yesterday.

It is rumored, also, that she will appear at a number of places of entertainment where Miss Majestic girls are being arranged in her honor.

Mystery Maid at Lloyd's

Carrier Pigeon Lights on Garage

North Plymouth, Oct. 1—A carrier pigeon, with a metal band on its right leg bearing the numerals 26 Y., was discovered on the garage roof of the home of Henry Hayes, 25 Bay View ave.

On the left leg there was attached a band with the figures 201 AU-29-CHA. How long the bird had been until he hears from the owner. The bird was in a weakened condition when found.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Gains

Philadelphia, Oct. 1—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., ill with intestinal grippe at the Graduate Hospital, was reported by her physicians as slightly better. They said there was no cause for undue alarm.

Finds Sugar Affects Happiness of Eaters

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 1 (AP)—Some surprising effects of sugars on personality will be studied in a new line of research announced today by Colgate University psychological laboratory.

It is proposed to measure relations recently found between sweets and the shifting moods and temperaments that sometimes make or break the day's happiness.

The sugar experiments are part of a program beginning with the present academic year, which Dr. Donald A. Laird, director of the laboratory, says will "take in two fields of practical psychology which to date have been largely neglected by psychology in general." The other field is taming odors to sell goods.

"Clinical observations," says Dr. Laird, "of the personality makeup of diabetic patients under insulin treatment have shown that moods and temperament change greatly with the percentage of sugar in the blood, but no close scientific studies have been made of the relation between sugar in the diet and personality such as is mapped out for investigation.

The acidity-alkalinity balance of the body, which causes the touch of a person's tongue to turn litmus paper a different color when he has a cold than when he is healthy, has been found recently to determine personality makeup to some extent. Normal, healthy individuals will be experimented upon."

To Nab Martens in Rothstein Killing

New York, Oct. 1 (INS)—"Heinie" Martens, an underworld character, was ordered picked up today for questioning in connection with the mysterious murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler and man-about-town.

Martens was revealed as the man whom former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright had in mind when he said he "knew the Rothstein slayer."

The Rothstein case has been revived as a dominant issue in the mayoralty campaign, with politicians on the stump charging police laxity in running down the killer.

Immunize Pupils

Lowell, Oct. 1—Immunization of 24,138 children against diphtheria has been completed by the Board of Health, through the activities of the School Hygiene division, directed by Dr. John J. McNamara.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

High Tension Wires Kill Everett Man

David Cook, 52, a teamster, of 37 Pearl st., Everett, was electrocuted when he accidentally brushed against high tension wires carrying 23,000 volts of electricity in the plant of the Malden Electric Company.

Cook's body caused a short circuit which blew out light and power in Malden for 10 minutes.

'CAVE MAN' IS 45 MILES FROM A NEIGHBOR

By CHESTER B. HOPE

Normandin, Que., Sept. 27—Burt McConnell's isolation in the Quebec wilderness became more complete today by the withdrawal of the commissaire camp which was located on the Washimeska river, 27 miles below him. Now there is no one nearer than the Perron family, situated at the head of James lake, which means 45 miles from McConnell.

The weather has turned colder. A drop of 19 degrees being reported as far south as Montreal Since Wednesday, the forenoon when Inspector McKibben gathered up the McConnell wardrobe and committed him to a sentence of sackcloth and ashes without the sackcloth, and a path has been hacked up or down the Washimeska—the only highway to the McConnell Monastery.

The cave man, 1929 edition, will do no more talking, for the next two months, than the dumbest monkey in the community as one of the attractions at Ville de Labeau, 15 miles east of Normandin.

His communication with the outside world will be entirely by means of his hieroglyphics he produces on his typewriter and leaves in a niche under a great rock near the bank of the river at Bear Trap Lake Portage.

LONG TRIP

Inspector McKibben left Normandin at 5 o'clock yesterday morning to collect the first instalment of these writings, and to leave in their place letters and telegrams from Mrs. McConnell, back in New York, worrying about the welfare of her sparsely dressed husband.

McKibben also is taking in a packet of Jasper, forwarded by the geological department of the Dominion government at Ottawa, for McConnell's experiment with in making arrows and spear heads. It is a substitute for flint which a glacial drive evidently carried from this section to more southern sanctuaries. But for a piece which McConnell's Indian predecessors on the Washimeska would have traded a few skins for pelts.

To make the long trip to McConnell's forest home, McKibben goes by automobile to St. Thomas de Didyme, nine miles, then in a springless wagon, and a slow-walking, big, black horse over an incipient road, alternately rocky and boggy, for forty miles, five miles further. The pronunciation of Lac a Jaune, which appears more like "Lack a Jane" than any other sounds than can be marmalade.

HELP MESSENGER

There, McKibben, with an assistant in the bow of a canoe, starts on the Washimeska, a river with all the way and with five rapids midway between the Misstaconpanne and the Washimeska. Here can be poled without portaging, however.

McKibben hopes to be back within two or three days with news of the McConnell experiments and goings of his social set among the moose, bear and rabbit families of the Canadian wilds. It will be interesting to know whether "Willie Weasel" has hit white winter clothes yet.

McKibben is McConnell's supporting column and will make personal delivery to the front line trench. All the people of the community, however, are vitally interested in McConnell's experiment and would gladly help McKibben get through. His mainstay, though, will be the Rev. J. H. Tremblay of St. Thomas Didyme parish, who was one of the members of the committee that saw McConnell off into the woods.

Letters intended for publication in The Boston Evening American should be brief. No letter should exceed 200 words. Your name with address, must accompany your letter; it will not be published unless you so desire.

Florida Fruit Fly Bootleggers' Enemy

Editor Boston American:

Say, that fruit fly down in Florida is indirectly fighting the bootleggers. Every vehicle that enters and leaves that state is subjected to a rigid examination by inspectors seeking to exterminate the insect pest. They more often find liquid than insects. Bootleggers are giving Florida the slip. Some will stay there to help exterminate their worst enemy, the fruit fly.

Meditation Chapel for Hotels Urged

Editor Boston American:

There is one hotel in New York City that has a Meditation Chapel. Here persons gather, remain silent and just think. You can't do this in the corridors of the hotel where all are always jabbering business within your hearing.

But this chapel does not allow talking. It is a great tonic for an overworked mind. I know of a business man who goes there daily after luncheon and just shuts his eyes and thinks for a half hour or more.

I wish that one of the hotels in Boston would have such a place and it would be near the North Station as conditions around there are the noisiest in Boston.

Seeks Contributions to Y. W. C. A. Rummage Sale

Editor Boston American:

May we ask your readers to help us in the rummage sale of the Y. W. C. A., to be held in Horticultural Hall, Oct. 16. Miss Louise Adams is planning it and will be grateful for any gifts.

It is for the Boston Women's League. Send articles to 140 Clarendon st. and mention "rummage," telephone Kenmore 7940, or notify Miss Dorothy Shaw.

Book Bootleggers Do Big Business in Hub

Editor Boston American:

Boston has book bootleggers. Orders are being taken here in this city for the 18 books to which Boston has said: "Thou shalt not pass."

The book bootleggers are an astute sort of salesmen, very natty in their dress and have secured in one day over 500 orders for books that Dame Boston has turned down.

Urges Whipping for Kidnapers

Editor Boston American:

The recent kidnaping of a four-year-old girl stirs a mother's heart and puts her upon the anxious seat while her children are going to and from school. This is the way that I have felt since reading of this kidnaping.

I may be cruel in saying this, but I think that every kidnaper found guilty should be humiliated, tried, convicted, married, "rummage," telephone Kenmore 7940, or notify Miss Dorothy Shaw.

Editor Boston American:

The recent kidnaping of a four-year-old girl stirs a mother's heart and puts her upon the anxious seat while her children are going to and from school. This is the way that I have felt since reading of this kidnaping.

I may be cruel in saying this, but I think that every kidnaper found guilty should be humiliated, tried, convicted, married, "rummage," telephone Kenmore 7940, or notify Miss Dorothy Shaw.

Auction: With the worthless doubleton in Spades, South bids the four-card Heart suit instead of No Trump, although three suits are stopped. West doubling negatively, North, with five Probable Tricks in support of Hearts, gives his two assists and ends bidding three Hearts.

Contract: Following North's bid of three Hearts, South bids four for game.

The Play.

West opens the King of Spades, East playing the Deuce. In order not to assist Declarer in the establishment of Dummy's Spades, and also because of Dummy's singleton Diamond, West switches to trumps, South winning with the King over East's Jack.

Declarer must lose two Spades and one Diamond. To prevent the loss of a Club trick and with it the contract, a Club must be discarded from both Declarer's hand and Dummy's, since if trumps are drawn there can be no more than one left in each hand and at least one Diamond and one Spade must be trumped in the establishment of those suits, and no trump would be available for the trumping of a Club trick, even should a Club discard be obtained from one of the hands.

To obtain the two Club discards required, one from each hand, a Spade trick must be established in Dummy and a Diamond trick in Declarer's hand. Declarer, being in his own hand, starts first in the establishment of a long Spade in Dummy, since he desires to take the Diamond finesse in establishing the Diamond suit.

West, winning the Spade trick, leads another trump, which Declarer wins with Dummy's 8 in order to take the Diamond finesse. Declarer finesses the 10 of Diamonds and West's Queen wins. West leads his third trump, Declarer passing it up to his own 9. Declarer leads the King of Diamonds to establish the Jack. West covers, and Declarer trumps with Dummy's last trump.

A Spade lead from Dummy establishes two long Spades in Dummy's hand. Declarer trumps the Spade trick, and then makes his Jack of Diamonds, discarding a Club from Dummy. Declarer then leads the King followed by a low Club to Dummy's Ace, and Dummy's two Spades take the last two tricks.

The result would have been the same had West, instead of leading a third trump, merely switched to the Queen of Clubs.

25,000 KIDDIES ATTEND FAIR AT BROCKTON

Brockton, Oct. 1—Twenty-five thousand children attended Brockton fair today. The opening day, as guests of the management. The only admission fee was a smile, and to say that the youngsters wore them would be putting it mildly. When the gates opened at 9 a. m. thousands of kiddies rushed through, many of them having walked hours in front of the fair grounds so that they wouldn't miss a thing.

For the first time in many years the sun did not shine today on the opening session. Cloudy skies and a chill wind greeted the children as they thronged through the gates.

The fair officially opened with the customary flag raising and singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the thousands of children who had already entered the grounds. President Fred E. Field addressed the children, telling them the fair was theirs for the day.

A track meet for the youngsters then followed, with prizes in all events. Eight junior high school teams competed for fast track teams. Folk dancing, a pageant, kite flying and a model airplane meet were also on the program.

Seventy-five children were entertained at an airplane meet, with cups being awarded the winners. Fireworks tonight will climax the festivities of the fair which continues four more days, with special programs during the day and evening.

Maine Lobsterman, Shot at Traps, Dies

Calais, Me., Oct. 1 (AP)—Sherman Merchant, 43, a lobster fisherman at Kennebec, three miles from Machias, died in Calais Hospital today of the gunshot wound inflicted yesterday while pulling his traps in Kennebec Bay.

George Manchester, also of Kennebec, who surrendered and was released on bail, was alleged to have explained that he discharged his gun with the intention of frightening Merchant while they were engaged in a dispute over traps, the result was causing the gun to point straight toward Merchant.

F. S. Brightman Dies

New Bedford, Oct. 1 (AP)—Frederic S. Brightman, 62, a stationers here, died today at St. Luke's Hospital following a shock.

OCTOBER 1, 1929

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Beautiful October

Dangerous, Too!

On the highways this is the most dangerous month of the year, to motorist and pedestrian.

Be careful!

With the return to standard time darkness comes an hour earlier. There will be heavy rains. Wet pavements and fallen leaves increase the danger.

Figures compiled by the Department of Motor Vehicles designate October as the peak month for deaths on the road. More children are sacrificed in this month than in any other. The most dangerous hours are those between 4 and 7 o'clock p. m. The exhilarating weather of a cool evening urges one to "step on it" and hasten home. Look out!

About one dreadful danger which makes its appearance with colder nights and colder mornings it should not be necessary to speak.

Don't start the engine of your automobile in the garage with the garage doors closed upon you.

When the engine starts, the creation of carbon monoxide begins. This colorless, odorless and tasteless gas, which gives no warning of its approach, has been called the "invisible death." Year after year, at this season, the newspapers report cases of carbon monoxide poisoning. We pretend to be an intelligent people. One would suppose that ONE such warning would be quite enough.

Be careful at ALL times. In October, be DOUBLY CAREFUL.

'Comrade' Burckes

A Proud Date Chief of Police Turns in His Shield

Chief of Police Thomas M. Burckes of Lynn surrenders that position today at the age of 82.

We don't know whether Mr. Burckes is the oldest chief of police in the United States, but if he is not the only veteran of the Civil War holding such a place we stand to be corrected. The Chief is a member of Post 5 of the Grand Army of the Republic.

At the age of 16, he left his bench in a Lynn shoe factory to enlist in the Navy. For a time he served on the Aroostook, one of the vessels of Farragut's squadron. He became a policeman in '65, a lieutenant in '68, a captain in '69 and was made city marshal in '97.

There must have been considerable man to the 16-year-old boy who enlisted in 1863, and there is a lot of man to the fine old veteran who for more than thirty years has headed the Lynn Police Department. Merchants, attorneys and responsible citizens in general testify to his courage and rectitude.

He has earned his retirement many times over. A grateful city hopes he may live long to enjoy it.

New Gas Prices

Effective TODAY

The new rate schedule of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, including a service charge of 50 cents per month to each and every customer, becomes effective today.

From this date the price of gas is to be 10 cents per 100 cubic feet up to 100,000 cubic feet, and 8 cents per 100 for gas in excess of that amount. This in addition to the "service" charge.

Mayor Nichols and the city's Law Department have made an earnest if unsuccessful effort to block these increases. Most unfortunately, however, their move was delayed until—following a public hearing—the new tariff had been approved by the Public Utilities Board. Samuel Silverman, Esq., of the Law Department, DID succeed in having the "penalty" clause eliminated. This was a provision adding 1 cent to the charge for each 100 feet when bills are not paid within 15 days.

The Nichols-Silverman gas fight cannot be regarded as altogether a failure, moreover, if it has suggested to any great number of citizens the desirability of keeping a watchful eye upon doings at the State House.

Many have learned, for the first time, perhaps, that on the recommendation of the Joint Standing Committee on Power and Light the Legislature of 1926 repealed the Sliding Scale Act. This was the law which made it imperative upon the Gas Company to REDUCE the PRICE of gas whenever it INCREASED its DIVIDENDS.

The committee which recommended that repeal was made up of four Senators and eleven Representatives. None of the Senators was a resident of Boston. Only two of the Representatives were Boston men. Was this properly the committee to handle such a local measure as the BOSTON price of gas? We ask the question.

A 'Hard' Winter?

Not in New England

THE men who ought to know say that from now until the new year New England will be as busy as a hen with one chicken.

They met at the Poland Spring House, 350 of them, members of the New England Shippers Advisory Board and of officials of the railroads. That it was an occasion of importance was shown by the presence of the FOUR railroad presidents, Hannauer of the Boston & Maine, Pelley of the New Haven, Morris McDonald of the Maine Central and Todd, of the Bangor & Aroostook.

All agreed that the production of New England industrial corporations will be increased in October, November and December by as much as 40 per cent.

Committees representing various commodities forecast these increases in particular:

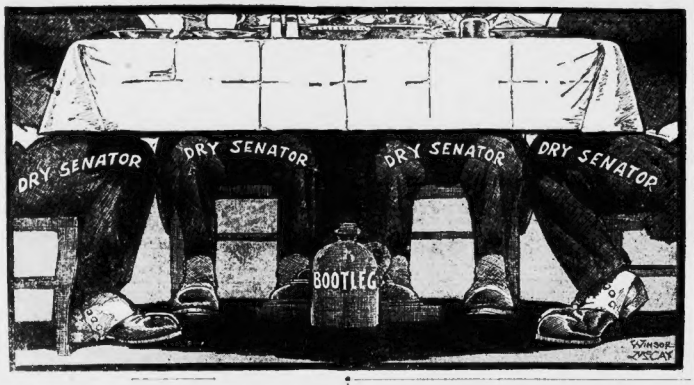
Cement shipments, 40 per cent; scrap metals, lime and cement, 25 per cent; machinery, petroleum products, bronze, copper, iron and steel, 15 per cent; coal and coke, electrical machinery and appliances, POTATOES, valve fittings, plumbers' supplies and BOOTS and SHOES, 10 per cent.

The mild weather has had no adverse effect upon retail trade, dry goods jobbers report heavy sales, shoe factories are running at close to capacity, woolen mills are more active and, in some centers, there is improvement in cotton textiles.

A forecast which makes everything rose-colored for three months ahead will please all except the professionally bilious.

How About Dry Senators?

(Copyright, 1929)



DR. DORAN, chief prohibition official, complains of "the inconsistency and hypocrisy of big employers."

He says the great industrialists keep whiskey from their employes, enforcing prohibition rigidly in their factories and, as far as possible, among workers outside the factories, while rejecting prohibition for themselves.

The big employer will tell you his men keep up with high speed machinery better when they drink ice water, and, also, they don't stay away on Monday as often as they used to, before prohibition.

But the big employers, who are NOT obliged to keep up with high speed machinery and are able to come down as late as they like on Monday morning, realize that prohibition was not meant for them.

They have champagne, whiskey, cocktails and RELIABLE" BOOTLEGGERS. For them, life goes on as smoothly as ever, interrupted by occasional attacks of blindness, when the reliable bootlegger makes a mistake and puts wood alcohol in the whiskey.

Dr. Doran's denunciation of hypocrisy and inconsistency among great industrialists is justified. You probably would not find one in twenty that does not have served at his own table alcoholic liquors of all sorts, beginning with cocktails, winding up with liqueurs and brandy.

It is bad enough to have men protected by the law in their accumulation of wealth, violating and flouting the law when it interferes with their own habits, and their desire to drink.

It is disgraceful that many of the richest men in the country, protected by the Constitution, should openly show contempt for the Constitution, openly disregarding it when it interferes with their pleasures or what they believe to be their "special rights lifting them above the lower classes."

But, what about the gentlemen in this picture?

The big employer of labor has not taken a solemn oath to obey and uphold the Constitution.

The gentlemen whose feet you see here HAVE taken such an oath.

And this picture, as Senator Howell of Nebraska has recently said, is an accurate picture.

The cartoonist's jug of bootleg liquor in this picture is allegorical.

The prosperous gentleman in his moments of relaxation usually prefers cold champagne ON the table, preceded by cocktails, to a jug of whiskey hidden on the floor.

If hypocrisy and inconsistency are to be criticized, criticism should begin IN WASHINGTON, with those that vote for prohibition and patronize bootleggers.

It should begin here, at this table, one of many such at the Capital and in other official centers throughout the country.

What in the long run will be the effect of such hypocrisy?

What does the workman think when, after a hard day's labor, he is told that he cannot have a glass of beer, knowing as he does that the man for whom he has worked all day has his champagne when he wants it?

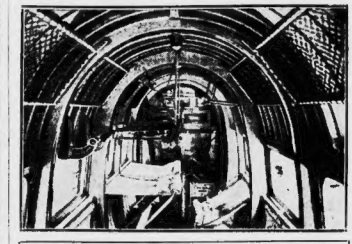
What, above all, will be the result of more years of organized crime, financed by bootlegging? Has our crime not risen high enough yet?

That question the people of the United States must answer.

British Flying Troops

Fifty Men, Two Officers, One Airship Load

(Copyright, 1929)



THIS TYPE OF BRITISH AIRSHIP CARRIED SOLDIERS FROM ENGLAND TO JERUSALEM

AS men move faster the earth grows smaller. This picture shows the inside of a British "Vickers troop-carrying airplane."

In this long flying cabin, with sleeping cots or hammocks let down at will, fifty soldiers and two officers, in addition to the airship crew, were hurriedly sent from London to Jerusalem when the massacres occurred.

It was not so much the number of men that was important, as the effect that it would have on rioting Arabs to see fully armed men, fifty-two of them, come down from the sky in an airplane.

MOHAMMED NEVER DID ANYTHING LIKE THAT.

This picture, although you don't live in Jerusalem and have no Arabs to fear, interests you, because it shows how war is changing.

There will be no more troops marching over the ground like caterpillars. They will come flying in clouds, like the locusts that devoured Egypt.

There will be no more heavy battleships. Anybody fool enough to build and pay for them, as this country does, will have to keep them locked up in war to protect them from airplanes and submarines.

War will be in the air and under the water, and Heaven help the nation that lacks submarines and airplanes.

TELL THAT TO YOUR CONGRESSMAN.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—The wild apartment house party is no longer attracting sensational headlines, but those who know say high fliers are merely doing their high flying higher up. In other words extravagant entertainers are now carrying on like Saturday night in penthouses.

Ten years ago about the only roof bungalows in town were those owned by Henry L. Doherty at 21 State st., Percy Rockefeller's on lower Broadway and Earl Carroll's on Seventh ave. Sky houses, prior to this, were used for storage in the manner of attics, or occupied by janitors.

Then some person discovered they offered the privacy and remoteness of a far-away island, even in the most congested residential or business district. Instead of modest bungalows, they became marble mansions with glorified junk from mediaeval resurrections.

In the fashionable Park, Madison and Fifth ave. sections now are more than 200 enormous castles in the air with private elevators and completely away from snooping neighbors. The West Side has as many more and others are going up. The penthouse has arrived with a bang.

In each cloud piercing aeries the sky is the limit. Tenants may have a full sized jazz band bleating all night. Ladies in the throes of alcoholic hysteria may scream in an orthodox of horrible gayety and not be heard next door. Of course, some pent house occupants live simply, quietly and decently.

But the idea offers a glorious outlet for fast spending Archibalds who entertain loose ladies. A real estate broker however, sounds a sour note in the hilarity. So far no scandal has been unrocked, but the pace has grown so swift anything may happen.

Wild parties often end in tragedy—pearl handled shooting or a leap out a window. Such an accident will bring pent houses under police observation and their popularity will go out like a light. But in the meantime a house in the clouds is "the nerts" and try to rent one.

With pent house popularity comes Dawn Golf. This is for stay outs who brace themselves with a cold shower and motor out to tee off at dawn. Sunday morning after a bad Saturday night is the big day for dawn golfing and those exercising enough will power to go through with it often duck a Sabbatical hangover.

Lou Holz, the Jewish comedian, tells of a conversation he overheard above the noise of a roaring Bronx subway. Two plump ladies were seated across the aisle from each other.

"Oh, Rebeccah," shouted one, "did you hear who moved in the apartment next door?"

"No. Who?"

"A bunch of kikes."

And they are telling of a gentleman afflicted with chronic headaches who submitted to an operation. The top of his head was tapped and his brain removed. While the surgeons took the brain to the other room for examination, the patient disappeared. Two weeks later he was found—writing a newspaper column.

New York now has a black-bordered woman of middle years driving a Victoria pulled by a dapple gray, and she seems to be doing well. Her husband was one of the venerable hackmen who passed on recently, and she took over the reins.

The police say most of the petty "hurry-up" graft rackets are worked around the Grand Central Terminal. People in hurry of travel are not so clear-headed, and fall for tricks that would never trip them up in calmer moments.

From a society paper: "He has been in the merry whirl for 40 years, but his sceptre is tarnished. He no longer rules. Once a Brummel, his style is passed, his clothes unpressed, his collar sags and his sox even droop loosely around his shoe tops."

Anyway, he's still the Wrinkle King!

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

New York, Oct. 1.—Senator Bob Howell wants to know why President Hoover doesn't dry up Washington.

After all there were the Senator Howell who prohibition enforced.

We wonder couldn't ask Senator Howell who he doesn't dry up Nebraska.

One was couldn't ask all that question.

They're still making that stuff under the gold-plated West.

As a memorandum for the archives, we want to state that we recently visited a number of corn States in Washington that was holding up in Nebraska.

The senator of Nebraska is chronic before the law.

The main abbreviation of Equity in law is "eq." for.

Nebraska is also known as the Antelope State. You act like one of those leaping gazelles after a quarter of good old Nebraskan blood purifier.

We don't claim that Nebraska is the north Great Lake as much as we must that Senator Howell is the fifth Marx Brother.

But Senator Howell's interrogation does not represent a plebiscite of inhabitants.

Nebr., is of a contempt of opinion. The average Nebraskan minds his own business.

The average Nebraskan minds his own business. Even if he requires cash, a copper tank and bran mash to do it.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

YOU hear a lot about how wonderful it is for women to be free at last after all these ages of Male Oppression. As a matter of fact, there's plenty of evidence to prove that if there was any oppression in the world's dim dawning, US GIRLS DID IT!

Female suffrage is nothing new in the human record. Time was when the ladies excelled all the votes, bossed all the industries and the men just hung around and waited for mama to come home.

T. Swann Harding tells about it in an article called The Dominant Sex," in the August 14 issue of The Nation. Says he:

"In 1917 the women of New York State, after much travail and hysteria, at last achieved the right to vote. . . . But among the Iroquois tribes which inhabited that State before modern paddlecking refinements were introduced, all adults, male and female, belonged to the tribal council, which gave them equal suffrage on a democratic basis. Centuries before this the women of the Senecas were electing the tribal officers and exercising the power of recall as well, when necessary. Among the Wyandottes and Hurons the clan was governed by a council composed of one man and four women; the man was elected by the four women of the council."

Now was that the hell! Males were bounced about, shoved off in canoes or sent home to mama by their primitive mates, as fancy dictated. How did the ladies get away with it? They got away with it, according to T. Swann Harding, because MEN DIDN'T REALIZE THEIR OWN IMPORTANCE. The mother, being obviously the parent of the child, had full command of the situation—papa simply didn't rate. He was adopted into the wife's tribe, fed on the wife's charity, or kicked out, at the wife's pleasure. But when he once did realize his importance in the scheme of things says Mr. Harding, he asserted himself and the wife took second place.

That's an interesting theory but I doubt if it's the true answer. I suspect that women, as a sex, lost their drag in antiquity for exactly the same reason that woman, as an individual, so often loses her drag today—LAZINESS AND SILLINESS.

Why did women become chattels? Because of man's brutality? Not a bit of it! THEY BECAME CHATTELS BECAUSE THEY LIKED THE IDEA OF BEING CHATTELS. BECAUSE BEING CHATTELS LOOKED LIKE A SOFT SNAP. The role might be ignominious but it was certainly kind on the feet.

YOU CAN TAKE THINGS MIGHTY EASY IF YOU'LL TELL SOME MAN HER is GREAT, BIG, WONDERFUL BRUTE AND SIT BACK AND LOOK ADMIRING WHILE HE DOES HIS STUFF.

Moreover, it's a lot more thrilling and romantic to be dragged by the hair and cooped behind bars than it is to punch a time clock and Be An Equal. There never yet was a woman, however, much emancipated, who didn't have a secret yen to be some rough bono's Piteous Victim.

If you don't believe it you should see some of the specimens that ile through my office. Wife Whamming, as an indoor sport, was not confined to primitive society. It still goes strong as abundant blacked eyes and busted noses testify. Shocking? of course it is. Isn't there anything these poor, dear ladies can do to protect themselves? There is—plenty. But will they do it? Not on your life! When it comes right down to brass tacks they stick to their Peevish Papas. For two reasons. First, because it flatters their vanity. . . Second, because it's easier than working.

And that, knowing women as I do, is my answer to How They Got That Way.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

I HAD forgotten aught could be so fair
Until I saw the sunlight dancing there
Upon the little waves that shore ward run,
From emerald turned to amber in the sun.
To fling themselves upon the sands at last
With glimmer as of jewels loosely cast.
I had forgotten forests were so dim,
With leafy murmur as of twilight hymn
And shifting shafts of light along the way,
The slender, searching fingers of the day;
With stir of wings and sudden shower of notes,
Gay gratitude from many joyous throats.
I had forgotten, but I pledge anew
Allegiance to the sunrise and the dew,
To all the pageantry of cloud, leaf, wing,
That swiftly stills my futile questioning;
Anew I turn to woodlands, stars and streams,
In them to find fulfillment of my dreams.
